DRY LAW, RUM BOAT-KILLINGS SCORED

FITZGERALD TO RUN FOR GOVERNOR

Former Mayor Announces His Candidacy at Meeting in Faneuil Hall

Former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald today announced his candidacy for governor next year on the Democratic ticket. The announcement was made at the Black Duck killing protest meeting in Faneuil Hall.

"I shall be a gubernatorial candidate next year on the Democratic ticket," said the former mayor.

Commenting upon the shooting of rum-runners, he said:

"The men aboard the Black Duck knew that the liquor they were bringing in was to be consumed by governors of states, mayors of cities, members of towns, judges and other officials."

He flayed Louis K. Liggett, Republican national committeeman, who, he said, forbids the sale of liquor in his drug stores but "has liquor aboard his yacht and in his home."

Burglar Doing Santa Stunt Hangs in Flue

Chadds Ford, Pa., Jan. 2 (AP)—A burglar who tried to enter the John D. Schiedt home by way of a chimney got stuck, early today, and was forced to call on the occupants of the house for help. He was rescued by firemen and arrested by state police.

He gave his name as Michael Toth, 27, of Philadelphia. He said he learned to climb when he was a sailor and thought "chimneys would be easy." He said he and two companions tried to enter the house by windows, but failed. He then climbed to the roof and slid down the chimney. But above a fireplace he was trapped.

More Bombings in New Orleans Strike

New Orleans, Jan. 2 (AP)—In the latest violence in the six-months-old street car strike here two trolleys were bombed, the second occurring in a distant section of the city while authorities were investigating the first in the downtown district.

The bombing followed the dynamiting of one car on Tuesday night. The fact police have announced they will arrest suspects in the old state law providing the death penalty for such violence.

$100,000 Paid for Church Debt Dinner

Kansas City, Jan. 2 (AP)—An ordinary plate dinner of the kind served at church affairs sold here for $2500. The dinner was held in the Linwood Christian Church to raise funds to pay off the church debt and diners were permitted to pay any multiple of $50 for their meal.

The name of the high bidder was announced. Dr. Burris Jenkins, pastor, said $100,000 was paid by E. Boyer for action.

Escapes Eight Bullets

Eight of the greatest thrills of her life came to Theresa Lindberg of 408 Pleasant st., Malden, when two bandits fired at the girl and her fiance as they fled an attempted holdup on Swain's Pond ave. Several of the bullets pierced the back of the car after they had accosted them. (Staff photo.)

ASK $2,000,000 TO ENFORCE DRY LAW

Sawyer Bill Follows Message by Governor Scoring Effort to Repeal Act

Following closely on the heels of Governor Frank G. Allen's New Year's address to the Legislature, in which he put himself on record against repeal of the "Baby Volstead Act" and said this state must back the United States in enforcement of prohibition, Representative Roland D. Sawyer of Ware today filed a bill providing for an appropriation of $2,000,000 to enforce the act.

Under the terms of Rep. Sawyer's bill, filed with the clerk of the House, the money would be placed at the disposal of the attorney-general who in turn would make it available to State police, local police and district attorneys.

QUART IS LIMIT

Sawyer filed another bill today to care for the deficiency in the old State liquor law in the event of the repeal of the "Baby Volstead act." He said that under the old law there is no provision for punishment for transporting liquor. Under his second bill today, possession of more than a quart of intoxicating liquor would be prima facie evidence of an attempt to sell.

Rep. Sawyer, in commenting on his enforcement bill, said:

"I shall expect the strong support of Mrs. Elizabeth Tilton of Cambridge and of the Anti-Saloon League for this provision to enforce the Baby Volstead Act. If they are sincere, and I have no reason to believe they are not, they cannot fail to be behind this bill."

He had this to say in connection with his other bill on transporta-

It's Ball Weather in Hub

The Hub bat tossers won't go south yet for nearly two months, but the weather turned baseball-minded today in East Boston.

With a temperature mounting steadily, group of youths were so moved by thew armth on the second day of the new year that they broke out taped baseballs, their stored-up gloves and mitts and various sorts of bats.

Heading off the season the youngsters cavorted on the vacant lot at Frankfort and Neptune sts., giving the terrain a summery aspect.

The weather sharps predicted confidently that the mercury would hit 60 at some point during the day, and their expectations were on the way to being borne out when the glass read 50, 12 degrees higher than yesterday at the same hour.

The warm weather here equalled that of many cities in the South. The following temperatures were reported at 8 a. m.: Charleston, S. C., 50; Norfolk, Va., 52; Raleigh, S. C., 48; Jacksonville, Fla., 64.

Greenville, Me., reported the lowest temperature in New England today, 24 above.

Don't take off your heavies because of the mild weather as the official forecaster said the outlook is for slightly colder weather tomorrow.

Youngest Countess to Wed Ex-Officer

London, Jan. 2 (AP)—The newspapers say that two of the most important engagements in Great Britain for a long time will shortly be announced. The first is that of the Duke of Westminster, famous sportsman, to Miss Loelia Mary Ponsonby, daughter of Sir Frederick Ponsonby, treasurer to the King and keeper of the privy purse.

The other is that of the Countess of Seafield, youngest English countess and one of the richest women in England, to Derrick Studley Hood, formerly an officer in the Grenadier Guards.

SCOTT NEARING TOO RADICAL FOR 'REDS'

Communists' Party Expels Noted Educator, Whose Views Cost Him Jobs

New York, Jan. 2 (AP)—From Roger Baldwin the New York Times has learned that Dr. Scott Nearing, whose radical views cost him professorships in the University of Pennsylvania and Toledo University, has been expelled from the Communist party.

He also has resigned from the board of directors of the Civil Liberties Union, and the board of trustees of the Garland fund, a foundation which gives financial aid to progressive and radical organizations.

Confirmation of the expulsion and resignations, the Times said, was obtained from Roger Baldwin, noted liberal and a director of the Union and trustee of the Garland fund, who said:

"I am not a Communist, nor in the confidence of the Communist organization, but a member of the party who should know told me that Dr. Nearing had been expelled by the central committee three weeks ago."

Possible reasons for his expulsion from the Communist party were seen in the fact that while on the board of the Garland fund he had voted to give aid to the Conference for Progressive Labor Action, an organization opposed by the Communists, and had written a thesis on imperialism which was said by Communist leaders to deviate from the line of their tenets.

Boy, 6, Gets Drunk at New Year Party

Newark, N. J., Jan. 2 (INS)—A six-year-old boy today was among 17 New Year's revelers treated for alcoholism at City hospital.

The boy became intoxicated when, unknown to his parents, he sipped a glass of wine at a party.

All of the injured were occupants of the machine driven by Edward J. Maher, 585 Elliot st., Milton. They included his sister, Florence Maher, James Sullivan and Florence Sullivan of 11 Sidney st., Dorchester, and Helen Mooney of 311 Morton st., Forest Hills. All declined hospital treatment.

Maher reported to police the registration number of the other car.

BILLIE DOVE IS 'OUT' OF LOVE

(Copyright, 1930, by Universal Service)

Hollywood, Calif., Jan. 2—The romance of Billie Dove, one of Hollywood's most prominent and loveliest motion picture stars, and Irvin Willat, her director-husband, has gone on the rocks.

Billie admitted that she and Irvin will in the future travel two separate and distinct paths. In fact, the New Year's Day of the Willat family was spent 3000 miles apart, with Billie in Hollywood and Irvin in New York.

When Irvin went to New York to direct a production for an independent film company, it was assumed that Billie would follow him as soon as she finished a picture she was making at First National. Billie did not go to New York and neither did her husband come West to spend the Christmas holidays with her.

At first, the hint there might be trouble between the Willats was discounted by those who had looked upon these two as Hollywood's ideal married couple. Much has been written about their domestic happiness. The "Happiest Married Couple in Hollywood" was an expression often applied to the beautiful Billie and her devoted husband.

HUB MEETING ASKS HOOVER TO PREVENT WHITEWASH

Faneuil Hall Speakers Call Coast Guard Slayings "Brutal Slaughter"

A crowd that jammed Faneuil Hall to the doors rocked "the Cradle of Liberty" today with protests against prohibition and the manner of its enforcement.

The meeting, under the auspices of the Liberal Speakers League, to protest against the killing of the three rum runners by coast guardsmen Sunday, literally rocked the building with applause that followed denunciation of the slayings, the Volstead law in general, a "fanatical Anti-Saloon League and a fanatical Congress."

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Lowman was attacked and President Hoover was informed, by resolution, that the "attitude of the government justly gives the impression that an attempt is being made to suppress the facts and whitewash a criminal act of the worst kind, and all this for the enforcement of an unpopular, unnecessary and stupid law which has no proper place in the Constitution."

KILLING DONE BY A "BOY"

The coast guard hand manning the machine gun that killed three members of the Black Duck's crew was that of "a boy of six months' experience and 21 to 22 years of age" and the rum-runners killed were "allowed to lay in their own blood for two hours without medical aid when it was but one night's mile away," John H. Backus, junior counsel for Charlie Travers, sole survivor of the rum-runner's crew, informed the meeting.

"What a travesty of justice that a few hours after killing three men in cold blood for running rum, the coast guard should get drunk on the seized liquor!" declared Congressman John J. Douglas, one of the early speakers.

FARCE OF PROHIBITION

"Oh, the farce of prohibition! How many crimes are committed in thy name!"

"I, for one accept the challenge issued by Governor Allen in his message to the Legislature," said the Hon. Joseph Walker, former speaker of the House and the first to address the protest meeting.

"If the Legislature does not repeal the Baby Volstead act, the people will. The people will not stand much longer the continuance of a law they have declared against by an overwhelming majority. The enforcement organizations, official and otherwise, throughout the country are placing prohibition above the Constitution, and using the machinery of government to further their ends.

ENTITLED TO NO RESPECT

"Prohibitionists ask respect for the Constitution but they themselves show no respect for it. The Constitution demands our respect, but the 18th amendment is inconsistent with the Constitution and is entitled to no respect. Give us liberty and self government."

President William H. Mitchell of the Liberal Civic League presided and conducted the speakers, who termed the killings "murder" and "brutal slaughter."

Consul W. Crocker, general counsel for the league, said:

"The men killed were rum runners, but they were also human beings. If we are going to obey the law we will have to have law and order from the government. Without investigation, Assistant Secretary of Treasury Seymour Lowman, in charge of enforcement, has

TAXI DRIVER IS TIED TO TREE

Robbed of his taxicab and $50, Thomas Connarton, of Carlysle st., Cambridge, was bound to a tree in the woods 50 feet off Almont st., Dorchester, by two bandits early today.

His passengers, whom he had driven from Massachusetts ave., and Memorial Drive, Cambridge, pulled guns on him when the cab reached Almont st.

After taking his cash, they led him into the woods, bound his hands behind his back with his necktie and tied him to a tree with his belt.

It was a half-hour before Connarton managed to work his belt free of the tree. Then, with his hands still tied behind him, he walked to the home of John Danehy, a policeman, at 180 Almont st., where he rang the front door bell with his chin.

Danehy freed him, notified headquarters and searched the district himself.

Adams Decries Plane Against Battleship

Secretary of the Navy Charles F. Adams at a Chamber of Commerce luncheon today declared that "men in the U. S. Navy are of high character, who serve with little hope of high reward."

"Half of the sailors you see on Boston Common are not navy men," he declared. "They're coast guardsmen."

And the several hundred at the monthly luncheon joined in his chuckle.

Prior to the luncheon the secretary received newspapermen. He commented on the recent lay-off of 60 workers in Charlestown navy yard, and of probability of another 100 being taken off the payroll.

"Conditions are the same all over the country, and we haven't enough work to keep men busy," he said.

The theme of his address was that the navy wants peace, but must be kept at an efficient point to protect the country, especially its merchant marine.

After speaking at the Chamber, the Secretary left for the Copley-Plaza, where he gave a talk along similar lines to the Women's Republican Club of Massachusetts.

The controversy of battleship versus airplane was discussed at length.

The point was stressed that airplanes "must bomb from a height of two miles, because of anti-aircraft guns."

"Accurate hits from two miles up are not frequent," he urged.

Battleships do not fear direct hits on deck, he said, but rather are wary of a bomb exploding in water near the ship. Direct hits do not penetrate, but explosion against the side do heavy damage, was his explanation.

His audience was reminded that airplanes, instead of reducing battleship efficiency, have greatly added to their power.

"Think of the old days when the efficient range of a battleship was only as far as the gun directors could see," he commented. "Now the airplane overhead signals hits so that the maximum range is the very capacity of the guns themselves. Our navy can make accurate hits at 17 of more miles."

The Navy Secretary will leave for London soon, where he will be one of the five official representatives of the government at naval conference discussions.

India Votes to Secede From Great Britain

Lahore, India, Jan. 2—The secession of India from the British empire has been approved by a vote of 2994 to 6 in the Indian national Congress.

The move parallels in a measure the secession on the Southern states of the United States that precipitated the Civil War.

By virtue of the resolution which the congress adopted, in which Mahatma M. K. Gandhi declared for complete independence, Great Britain is placed in the embarrassing position of facing the New Year with India as its most important problem.

new creed—which was defined as "puran swaraj" or "complete swaraj."

The new working committee of the congress has decided to authorize the congressional president to call upon all native congressmen in the various legislatures to resign immediately.

This action will be the first step in the move to gain independence for India through non-co-operation with the British governmental machinery.

A small deputation of the working committee considered it desirable to wait before giving such definite shape to the policy of civil disobedience, so as to see whether any

Find Fake Bomb Near Sacco Juror's Home

What was at first believed to have been a powerful bomb, found with wick burning, near the Milton home of Lewis McHardy, Sacco-Vanzetti trial juror, turned out to be a non-explosive imitation, according to State officials.

The "bomb" which was examined today by Perlin Charter, State chemist of the department of public safety, contained nothing but sulphur and two copper wires. This sulphur and wires were in an 18-inch length of pipe. Contrivances of this sort are known as "home-made plasters."

Because of the fact that McHardy's home was destroyed by a

CALL HOOVER'S ATTENTION TO 'WHITEWASH' OF RUM KILLINGS

COAST GUARD SLAYINGS SCORED

termed the killings 'regretable but unavoidable.'

"The coast guard said they displayed a pennant, but how could it be seen in the fog? They say they sounded a horn, but that was not a warning in accordance with law. I challenge the coast guard to show proof that the one pounder was fired as a signal. The wounded men of the Black Duck lay two hours on the deck before they were landed at Ft. Adams. One of them, Weisman, died on shore.

"The man who fired the machine gun cried afterward: 'My God, what have I done? I've killed three men; get me out of this,' Crooker said.

Other speakers and dignitaries present included Julian Codman, John F. Fitzgerald, Congressman MacCormack, Rev. W. Magoun, rector of the Seaman's Institute, Newport, sent a letter terming the killings, "Brutal slaughter."

RESOLUTION ADOPTED

The following resolution was unanimously adopted and sent to President Hoover with a copy to every member of Congress, Secretary Mellon and his assistant, Lowman:

RESOLVED that we, Citizens of the United States, assembled this second day of January, 1930, in convention in Faneuil Hall, Boston, are deeply shocked and indignant at the attitude of Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Lowman, who as the responsible head of prohibition enforcement has justified without condemnation the killing of three citizens by the Coast Guard in Newport harbor.

We believe that we have a right to respectfully demand that you, sir, as President of the United States, order a thorough and searching investigation into the facts surrounding this deplorable incident by some body not connected with the coast guard or the Treasury Department.

DESTRUCTION OF LIBERTIES

By the continuance of such governmental practices as the incident above described we can see nothing but the destruction of the liberties for which our fathers fought, for which free men have bled from the time of the Great Charter.

We are not asserting the guilt of the coast guard, but we believe the attitude of the government as at present taken will justly give the impression that an attempt is being made to suppress the facts and whitewash a criminal act of the worst kind and all this for the enforcement of an unpopular, unnecessary and stupid law which has no proper place in the Constitution of our nation, and which all intelligent people know can never be enforced.

Be it further resolved that the original of the above resolution be signed by the chairman of the meeting and duly verified, and that it be sent to the President o fthe United States and a copy thereof to each member of the Congress, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Lowman.

CALLS LOWMAN UNFIT

Atty. Backus furnished the Liberal Civic League with the following statement, which was read to the assembled protestants:

"The statement of Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Lowman that the killing of three men at Newport was unavoidable but justifiable is without any foundation of fact and clearly shows that even though he is at the head of a division of the government that is guarding the seacoast of our nation, his knowledge of the actual conditions of the waters of the North Atlantic are so limited as to make him unfit for the position he holds. No mariner will agree with him, and the conclusions he arrived at are so contrary to the actual conditions as to make any statement of his worthless.

"I wonder if in arriving at his conclusion before issuing his statement he considered the age and experience of the boy who operated the machine gun that killed two boys of my State.

"Does he believe a boy of six months' experience and 21 to 22 years of age is competent to judge of the circumstances that warrants one man shooting at another?

"Does he believe that it is unavoidable to shoot at three men with a machine gun and let them lay in their own blood for two hours without medical aid when it was but one-half mile away?

"As to the legal right to shoot to kill that is a question to be decided by the courts of the United States of America and the State of Rhode Island, but it is the history of mankind that when the hand of death approaches a fellow-human being, be he felon or saint, the spirit of mercy prompts some hope that he die in peace.

"The laws of man provide the death penalty for only certain crimes, one of which is murder. The government of America does likewise, Mr. Lowman notwithstanding."

Flag Half-Staffed for Confiscated Liquor

Baltimore, Jan. 2 (INS)—Closely guarded by armed soldiers and Coast Guards, 2000 cases of whiskey, gin and champagne, seized at Ocean City, Md., were brought here today in 10 army trucks. The liquor was stored in the custom warehouse.

When the trucks left Ocean City, 1500 people stood in mockery with bowed heads as the procession moved down the street. Two persons were reported to have placed the American flag at half mast on their premises as a mark of protest.

May Ask Hoover to Force Coast Guard's Aid

Providence, Jan. 2—Unless he receives full cooperation from the coast guard in Rhode Island's investigation of the slaying of three rum runners, Atty. Oscar L. Heitzen will appeal to President Hoover.

The attorney general voiced this threat today as he left Providence for Newport to take charge of the coroner's inquest into the killing of three members of the crew of the Black Duck.

He notified the New London coast guard base that he wants the C.G.290, the patrol boat from which the shots were fired, and its crew, as well as the captured Black Duck, at Newport for the inquest which opens this today.

He also demanded full records of the coast guard in connection with the shooting Sunday.

If his demands are refused by the base, Atty.-Gen Heitzen said he would go to Washington and lay his appeal before the President through Senators Jesse H. Metcalf and Felix Hobart.

The attorney-general said that voluntary manslaughter would be the basis upon which the state would proceed with its own grand jury probe of the shooting. The crime is punishable by 20 years imprisonment in this state.

Whether the inquest will open as a public or a private proceeding will depend upon the coast guard's reply to his demands, he said. "If the service will not co-operate, I will close the inquest to the public. I must proceed, then, secretly guarding what information I have.

"It is absurd for the coast guard to draw a veil of mystery over the affair," continued Heitzen. "If they are justified they certainly have nothing to fear. They owe it to themselves, to the service and to the people of Rhode Island to aid this investigation."

Charles Travers, of Fairhaven, lone survivor of the Black Duck's crew of four, was scheduled as the star witness before Coroner Perry B. Dawley, at Newport.

Released under $10,000 bail on a smuggling charge, Travers is expected to reiterate before the coroner his charges that the crew of the C.G.290 fired upon the rum boat without warning.

If the Black Duck is delivered to the state for the inquest, Capt. Charles Van Amberg, Massachusetts state police firearms expert, will be called to make an examination of bullet holes in the craft.

Asst. Atty-Gen. Benjamin M. McLyman, who took charge of the state's probe during the absence of Atty.-Gen. Heitzen, will be present at the inquest.

U. S. Atty. Henry M. Boss, Jr., received additional reports on the shooting today from the coast guard and from Department of Justice agents from the Boston district. He declined to make these public and said he would not turn them over to Heitzen.

tion of more than a quart of liquor:

"This bill is filed to quiet the fears of those who feel that the repeal of the Baby Volstead Act would leave us too little law to deal with bootleggers and with the intention of being quite in accord with those who feel that the Baby Volstead Act, which makes a man a criminal for carrying a pint whiskey prescription given him by his doctor, is an absurd law."

A. C. Ratsnesky, chairman of the committee formed last year to support Governor Allen's public welfare program, today praised the Governor for the stand he has taken. He referred to the Governor's "very notable set of recommendations" and said he would soon call a meeting of the committee "to arrange an opportunity at a public meeting for the general expression of approval of the Governor's program and for the formation of plans to support the recommendations."

SCORED BY FITZGERALD.

Asserting that the governor's stand was only to be expected, Julius Codman, counsel and spokesman for the Constitutional Liberty League, charged that the Baby Volstead act has never been enforced. He characterized Governor's Allen's attitude as a "counsel of fear."

Former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald, who is being prominently mentioned as Democratic candidate for governor, said that Allen could "take no other attitude on the question, because a band of fanatical-minded women prohibitionists controlled the Republican nomination for the governorship and all other Statewide offices."

STATE IS "WET"

The Republican party in Massachusetts, it was agreed, has a dry majority, but the balance among the voters as a whole is against the prohibitionists.

The governor's reference to the prohibition question received the greatest amount of applause from his hearers. Any doubts existing that prohibition will be the dominant issue of the session, and of the political year as well, were completely dispelled.

Governor Allen, in his address, declared he believed one of the gravest dangers today is indifference in the observance of law.

"Violation and evasion of law are a direct threat to the stability of our institutions and the permanence of our governments," he stated.

"The repeal of our State law providing for the enforcement of the 18th Amendment to the federal constitution would not change the fundamental situation with regard to prohibition, the federal Constitution rules.

"The repeal of the State enforcement act would be an open invitation and an incentive to violate the law. It would breed and nourish lawlessness—lawlessness which spreads as a contagion to destroy all law.

"Massachusetts has always been a stalwart supporter and defender of the constitution of the United States. Massachusetts has always stood for law and order."

Atty. Bibley of the Constitutional Liberty League, after predicting Allen's defeat in 1930, pointed out that the Governor was elected by a small majority, and that while he was being elected "by the skin of his teeth" the voters were solemnly expressing their disapproval of the 18th Amendment by a majority of 284,697.

Sibley called attention to the fact that a bill was filed in the Legislature in 1925 asking for an appropriation of $3,000,000 for enforcement, and at the time the Anti-Saloon League openly opposed it.

"In other words," Sibley explained, "they wanted the 'Baby,' but were unwilling to pay for the milk for its bottle."

SHOTS FIRED IN R. I. NIGHT CLUB BANDIT RAID

Suspect Beaten and Seized; Five Escape After a Panic in Woonsocket Hostelry

Woonsocket, Jan. 2—Police today revealed an attempted hold-up of 75 night club patrons of Hotel Cumberland early New Year's morning in which several shots were fired, five bandit suspects routed and a sixth knocked unconscious and arrested.

The shooting occurred at the height of the festivities and the party was thrown into panic with women screaming and men fighting.

Six men appeared at the back entrance of the club about 4 a. m. and demanded that Napoleon Mailloux, the proprietor, admit them.

Mailloux refused, saying the dining room already was crowded. One shot was fired into the air as the six rushed inside.

KNOCKED UNCONSCIOUS.

Nicholas Rampoon of Charles st., Providence, gun in hand, led the sextet, according to police. Another shot was fired into the ceiling and one man cried: "Line up and we'll see what they've got."

Mailloux and several employes charged Rampoon, who fired directly at them, it is alleged. Patrolman Arthur McKenna, who had heard the shots, rushed into the club dining room just as Mailloux wrested the revolver from Rampoon and struck him over the head. The force of the blow shattered the gun handle and the trigger guard and knocked Rampoon unconscious.

REPORT ONE PERSON SHOT

The five others fled as McKenna drew his own revolver and charged them. A police detail later searched the city for them without success.

A report that one patron was shot in the leg during the melee and left the club unnoticed was under investigation.

JAIL BREAKER IS CAUGHT IN LOWELL

Second of Two Who Saved Way to Freedom Is Captured in Police Raid

Lowell, Jan. 2—The second man of the trio who sawed their way to freedom from the Essex county jail at Salem was captured at gunpoint here early today when a squad of police raided his room in a lodging house.

He is James Mullen, 37, of Arlington, who was awaiting trial in superior court on a charge of vagrancy when he escaped.

Howard Currie, 27, of Gloucester, one of Mullen's companions, was recaptured a few hours previously at the Essex-Hamilton line by state troopers engaged in a search for him.

Mullen's capture followed receipt of information that a man answering his description had taken a room in a Westford st., lodging house. Early today, a squad of Lowell police, under Capt. Kennedy, went there and found their quarry asleep.

The policemen entered the room with drawn guns, but Mullen made no attempt to escape. When asked how long he had been in Lowell, he replied, "Too long." Aside from this he would say nothing, refusing to divulge his whereabouts since his escape from Salem jail, or the whereabouts of Joseph McGuiness, 24, of Salem, who is still at liberty.

He was placed in a cell at police headquarters, to be taken back to Salem later.

O'Neill and H. M. Blackmer refused to attend a grand jury investigation in Washington in 1928 where counsel tending to show that former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall accepted a bribe in the Teapot Dome bonfire in connection with leasing of government oil lands was sought.

'BOMB' SCARE IN MILTON

bomb in August, 1927, much apprehension was felt by the Milton police, members of the McHardy family and neighbors over the finding of the contrivance, which was two inches in diameter, one end of which was plugged with homemade cement.

The Milton police are continuing their investigation to determine whether some friend of the McHardy's was endeavoring to play a grim practical joke on the family.

While walking along the edge of the Brooks estate in Pleasant st., William McCarthy, a chauffeur, observed the suspected death machine. It rested on two stones over the base of an oil lamp with the flame licking the open end of the pipe.

The McHardy home which was rebuilt after the town of Milton and popular subscription, following the blast that wrecked it two years ago, was the nearest habitation to the contrivance. The "bomb" was found in bushes.

SHAKEUP TO HIT 100 N. ENGLAND COAST GUARDS

Officials Deny Change in Personnel Is Due to Present Drive on Rum Boats

A shakeup in coast guard personnel, involving more than 100 officers in the New England district, was revealed today when men on temporary commissions were notified from Washington that their commissions will expire June 30.

At the same time enlisted men who passed examinations for temporary commissions last June were notified that they had been placed on an eligible list, but no new appointments have been made to date.

The purpose of the move, according to regular officers here, is to confine commissions in the coast guard to men brought up through "line promotion" or graduates of the coast guard academy at New London.

High officers denied that the move was brought about through recent activities of the guard against rum runners.

In Boston and vicinity alone, including headquarters, Base 8 at East Boston and the Fore River shipyards at Quincy, more than 50 temporary commissions are due for the death knell at the end of the government fiscal year, June 30. The ranks include warrant officers and lieutenants (junior grade).

At New London, scene of the present investigation over the killing of three rum runers, more than 60 officers are due to go out of the service.

Base 7 at Gloucester has eight officers under temporary commission and Base 4 at Woods Hole will lose 12 under the ruling.

NEW YEAR RUM KILLS FIVE

New York, Jan. 2—Liquor was blamed by hospital physicians today for the death of one woman and four men and an attendant of the New Year's celebration here. Hospitals treated 79 cases of alcoholism.

The bodies of the woman and one of the men were found by police on Brooklyn streets. An autopsy was ordered in the case of a man who died in his home to determine whether he had been killed by poisoned liquor. One other died at home and the fourth man succumbed at Bellevue Hospital.

The number of persons admitted to hospitals suffering from effects of over-indulgence in alcoholic beverages was 28 more than were treated a year ago and 41 more than New Year's Day, 1928. Six of the 35 cases at Bellevue were pronounced acute; one man was in a state of coma and physicians said his condition was critical. One of the acute cases was a 20-year-old girl taken from a night club.

Chicago, Jan. 2 (INS)—Police today ascribed two killings, a half-dozen shootings and 250 arrests for drunkenness to the New Year's celebration.

EX-HOUSEMAID INHERITS MILLIONS LEFT BY BROKER-HUBBY

OWN BROTHER HEAD BUTLER IN MANSION

Former Immigrant Girl Was Fourth Wife of Rich New York Man

Port Chester, N. Y., Jan. 2 (AP)—In a rambling, gabled, old mansion, where for 17 years she served as chambermaid and in which her brother is still the butler, a middle-aged Czecho-Slovakian immigrant reigned today as mistress and possibly sole owner.

She is the former Anna Mary Schleis, who two years ago became the fourth wife of her employer, Frank W. Savin, retired millionaire broker, then 76 years old.

Savin died Tuesday after an appendicitis operation. His will has not yet been filed, and among the heirs are his son and daughter and two adopted children, but presumably his widow will be one of the principal heirs.

The size of the estate has been variously estimated all the way from $5,000,000 to $20,000,000.

BROTHER HEAD BUTLER

"Twenty million dollars would be far too much, I think," the widow said today. "Five million would be nearer right."

When he retired, Savin sold his seat in the stock exchange, which he had bought 30 years ago for $5000, for $475,000, nearly the top price. Port Chester real estate men placed the value of the old mansion here at about $100,000.

With the house of towers and gables, the widow today also had at her sole command several automobiles and a staff of servants, of which her brother, Joseph Schleis, is the head.

Savin's first wife was the former Arriba Wheat of New Haven, Ct., said to have been a great beauty. They were married in 1871 and she obtained a legal separation in 1898. Their two children, Josephine and Frank W. Savin, Jr., drifted off to Europe and were more or less forgotten. Their father, it is said, has continued them on allowances all these years.

TWO OF WIVES DIED.

His second wife was Mrs. Sarah Hamilton West. She died in 1911. The third Mrs. Savin was, like the fourth, a servant in the house. She was Mrs. Sarah M. Meadwell. Savin's housekeeper, and both before and after her marriage she had supervision over the household tasks of her successor. She died in 1925.

Before his third wife died Savin adopted her brother-in-law, Charles Ely Monroe, who was then 45, and Muriel Elizabeth Withnal, a four-year-old orphan whom he saw one day in an institution and took a fancy to. Both Monroe and the child left the household when he married for the fourth time.

ROYAL WEDDING TO BE A BLAZE OF SPLENDOR

Rome Society Plans for Nuptial Fetes and Pope's Jubilee

Rome, Jan 20 (AP)—With a royal wedding set for January 8, a new state of things in the social world inaugurated by the breaking down of the old barrier between the "black" and "white" aristocracies, and the splendor of the fetes attendant on Pope Pius' golden jubilee of priesthood, Rome is looking for a post-holiday week "brighter and better" than any the city has experienced for more than a century.

All the women-folk of the diplomatic set and those who are admitted at court have made sizable purchases of toilettes in anticipation of the social functions that will lead up to the crown prince's marriage to Princess Marie-Jose of Belgium. Foreign diplomats, highly placed government functionaries, and members of both the Papal and Italian aristocracies have been replenishing their wardrobes. New full dress uniforms have been ordered by the army, navy and aviation officers declined to attend the regal wedding ceremoney and others leading up to it. The last category naturally includes Prince Humbert of Savoy, the future bridegroom.

Princess Marie to Leave for Rome Tomorrow

Brussels, Jan. 2 (AP)—Princess Marie Jose will leave Brussels tomorrow for Rome, where next Wednesday she will become the bride of Prince Humbert, heir to the Italian throne.

The princess will be accompanied on the special train which will carry her across France and Italy by her father, King Albert, and her mother, Queen Elizabeth, high government dignitaries, and those who will serve as her attendants at the wedding.

The presidents of the Senate and House of Deputies today will meet the princess, bringing her gifts and bidding her farewell.

NEW YEAR SEES STOCKS HIGHER

New York, Jan. 2—A series of bullish demonstrations featured trading in the first stock market session of the new year today. Popular industrials and specialties benefited to the extent of $2 a share or more.

Optimistic forecasts on business prospects were factors in promoting outside buying, which aided pools in marking up many popular shares. Aside from New York Central and Union Pacific, rails were sluggish. Utilities made the best showing as a group and gains of $2 to $3 were numerous.

Atlas Powder rose $7.25, Air Reduction $6, General Electric $5.75, Eastman Kodak $5.50 and Auburn Auto $5.25.

PACIFIC LINER CALLS HELP

San Francisco, Jan. 2 (INS)—Crippled by a broken steering gear and with its afterhold filling with water, the 8800-ton steamer California of the William Diamond Line today radioed for help, 800 miles off the Washington coast, according to advices received here by the Chamber of Commerce marine department.

The steamer sailed from Astoria, Columbia River, Dec. 30, bound for Yokohama.

The United States coast guard cutter Snohomish is speeding to the assistance of the disabled ship. According to local officials of the company the steamer carries a crew of 37 men in addition to Capt. L. Johnson.

Gold in U. S. Is Reduced $90,800,000

New York, Jan. 2—The New York Federal Reserve Bank reported that the country's net loss in gold during December was $90,800,000, reducing the net gain for 1929 from $228,100,000 at the end of October to $115,000,000 at the end of December. The November loss was about $20,000,000.

Exports last month, said the bank's monthly business review, totaled $72,200,000, of which $47,000,000 went to France and $21,000,000 to England. Gold ear-marked for foreign account increased $22,000,000. The December reduction in the monetary gold stock was the largest for any month since May, 1928.

Believe Ruins Those of Ancient Sodom

Jerusalem, Jan. 2 (AP)—Archaeologists working in Palestine are wondering whether the ruins of Sodom, which the Bible says was so wicked it was burned to the ground, finally have been found.

An expedition of the Pontifical Bible Institute of Jerusalem excavated ruins of a city hitherto unknown to science in which all houses and buildings were covered by a large layer of ashes.

Investigators, taking note of relics found, assumed the place was burned in the Bronze Age and never was inhabited since then. The relics included broken pottery, a few vases, and flint instruments. Among the ruins was an ancient wall, built partly of stone and partly of bricks.

The ruins are located in the eastern plain of the Jordan about six kilometers north of the Dead Sea. They were located quite by accident when members of the party found some flint objects and potsherds where their tents were located.

RUBIO IGNORES HOSTILE CROWD

Detroit, Jan. 2 (AP)—After a reception marred by a hostile demonstration on the part of 200 or more men and women who mingled with a friendly crowd at the railroad station, Pascual Ortiz Rubio, President-elect of Mexico, today was scheduled to receive the official greetings of the city of Detroit at City Hall.

The President-elect appeared unperturbed by the unfriendly attitude of the noisy group which was outnumbered ten to one by those who cheered him. The hostile crowd was said by police to have been made up principally of local Communists. Two men were detained by police.

CHILD, COP SHOT BY GANGSTERS

Detroit, Jan. 2 (AP)—Inspector Henry J. Garvin, head of the crime and bomb squad of the Detroit police department, was shot four times shortly after 8 a. m., today by a group of men in a large black sedan who drove beside the inspector's car in Coplin ave., near Jefferson ave. and fired 12 shots.

An 11-year-old girl, struck by one of the bullets, was said to be dying.

The wounded girl is Lois Bartlett of 14427 Mack ave., struck in the head and arm.

Inspector Garvin's condition was said to be serious, but not critical.

The inspector is known to have been a marked man in the city's underworld since organization of the crime and bomb squad two years ago. The squad was organized to rid the city of racketeers and hijackers.

Bacteriologists Elect

EDDIE CANTOR Rises to Say:

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 2—Mellon predicts a prosperous year. He also prophesied a prosperous year for 1929 and we would have had it, too, if not for the stock market crash, business being bad, money being tight, prices being high and things in general being on the bum.

Mellon having failed several times in his predictions, why not give a real financier a chance. Now I'll tell you about 1930.

People who work will have money. The unemployed won't. The rich will get richer and the poor will establish new credits. The market will be stronger, but it will have its weak moments. See great prosperity for certain industries and for others a good substantial increase over 1929, with the outlook for 1931 much better, unless some financial crisis towards the end of 1930, or, if it is carried over to 1932, which leaves 1933 wide open.

P. S.—If these predictions fail, remember it puts me in the same class with Mellon.

BLAST LINKS HUB TUNNEL

Worcester, Jan. 2 (AP)—A dynamite blast deep under the Rutland hills marked the beginning of the final stage of the building of a tunnel stretching 14 miles underground from Coldbrook to Oakdale reservoir to carry water to the Boston Metropolitan area from the upper reaches of the Ware River.

The blast, 650 feet under ground joined the headings of shafts 5 and 6 and resulted in six clear miles of tunneling, since shafts 6 and 7 had been previously joined. These are two of the eight shafts, spaced nearly two miles apart which continue straight up from the tunnel under ground. By February two more joinings will be made.

Within a few months a concrete plant will be set up at the mouth of one of the shafts and the work of lining the tunnel with cement will be started. That will progress at about 5000 feet a month, engineers say.

Wins $1000 for New Wave Motion Proof

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 2 (AP)—A new proof of the peculiar wave motion believed by some scientists to cement the universe today won the highest honor of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the $1000 reward for "an outstanding paper." The author was A. J. Dempster, physicist of the University of Chicago.

Mr. Dempster demonstrated indirect but visible evidences of the wave motion of very tiny bits of hydrogen. According to one of the latest sensations in science, called wave mechanics, there is thought to be a wave motion of the particles in all substances. It is believed that this motion in some manner effects the very nature of material substance.

U. S. and China in Accord on Courts

Washington, Jan. 2 (AP)—Secretary Stimson said today that a study of the recent Chinese proclamation on extraterritoriality showed that Government to be in accord with the American position on these rights.

Reports from China that the action of the Nanking Government was taken to end all extraterritorial rights on January 1, Mr. Stimson said, were not borne out by the text of the proclamation, which he interpreted to mean that the Chinese wished January 1 to be the starting point for gradual elimination of the extraterritorial rights of the foreign powers.

WET PLATFORM TO TRIM DRY FORCE POWER

Congressional Leaders Plan to Reorganize Entire Enforcement System

Washington, Jan. 2 (INS)—An ambitious program, designed to halt the alleged invasion of the constitutional rights of citizens in enforcement of the prohibition law and ultimately to bring about modification of the Volstead act, is being developed by Congressional "wets," it was disclosed today.

This is the answer of the anti-prohibitionists to the plans of the administration to reorganize the whole system of dry law enforcement and the controversy raging among Senate drys.

The "wet" campaign is expected to bring before Congress and the country for the first time since national prohibition became effective a real "wet platform," around which all liberals may rally.

END GUARD KILLINGS.

During the entire congressional war over prohibition, it is pointed out by leading "wets," there never has been a concrete program presented in opposition to the dry forces, and the "wet" opposition has been largely confined to sniping.

Among the planks which may be included in the "wet platform" are:

Legislation providing heavy penalties for prohibition officers who violate the constitutional guarantees against search and seizure in raids.

Modification of Section 581 of the tariff act of 1922 under which it is alleged, the Coast Guard and customs officers have virtual war-time powers to shoot and kill suspects.

Measure indemnifying innocent victims of the bullets of enforcement officers.

BAN WIRE TAPPING.

Bill prohibiting telephone and telegraph wire-tapping to obtain evidence, as an invasion of personal liberties guaranteed the individual under the constitution. The Supreme Court has held wire tapping legal.

Modification of Volstead law and provision for taking of a nation-wide "wet" and "dry" referendum as a part of the 1930 census also may become a part of the platform.

Rep. Schafer, (R.), of Wisconsin, explaining the plan, said:

"Several methods of modifying the Volstead act will be considered. I shall advocate a program in line with the temperance plan of Justice Franklin Chase Hoyt of New York in the Hearst papers contest."

First 1930 Suicide Is Hub Manufacturer

The first Boston suicide of 1930 was Louis Jacobson, 58, of 11 Michigan ave., Dorchester, according to the Boston police. He was found dead today on the floor in his office at 564 Washington st. A rope with which he evidently hung himself to a steam pipe had broken.

Jacobson, who is married and had long been ill, left home yesterday. Police believe he climbed a ladder, attached one end of a rope around his neck and the other to a steam pipe and then kicked the ladder from under him. He was proprietor of Goddard Manufacturing Co., makers of clothing.

Doctor Takes His Own Cure, But It Fails

New Orleans, Jan. 2 (AP)—Dr. Paul F. W. Wipperman, superintendent of Touro Infirmary, and widely known in medical circles, died early today after suffering a month from a rare form of blood poisoning in which he had specialized and discovered a treatment.

Physicians injected a serum of Dr. Wipperman's own discovery and surgeons amputated one of his feet in an effort to save his life.

He served in the World War, was executive officer of the Public Service Hospital at Minneapolis and superintendent of the Decatur Country Hospital in Illinois before coming to New Orleans Oct. 1, 1928.

He was the son of a Methodist minister and spent his early life in Nebraska and Missouri. He was born Nov. 26, 1888.

INDUSTRY RUM SCANDAL LOOMS

Washington, Jan. 2 (AP)—Industrial alcohol leaks are regarded by President Hoover's law enforcement commission and congressional dry leaders as prohibition's most difficult problem.

Out of the whirl of holiday discussion and controversy among the drys this fact has been agreed upon by all factions.

Described by Senator Borah of Idaho as a "scandal" the administration of the permit system, whereby industrial alcohol is distributed to business, is due for a thorough investigation.

Already rumors of grave disclosures in this inquiry have been heard. Senator Jones of Washington, administration spokesman for the drys, said after several conferences with members of the law enforcement commission.

"All seem to view the industrial alcohol situation as the most difficult one to solve properly, as well as one of the most important phases of prohibition enforcement. In working this out the commission should shield no individual and no line of business."

Dorchester Mutual Has Diamond Jubilee

Of the 31 Boston insurance companies involved in the big Boston fire of 1872, the Dorchester Mutual Fire Insurance Co., which marks its 75th anniversary this year, is the only one that survived. In commemoration of the anniversary the company has had cast a striking bronze medal, on one side of which the fire of 1872 is depicted. The other side contains the company's seal.

The early records of the company contain interesting information, including the fact that the directors adjourned so they might view a whale killed in the Neponset river.

Among the first contracts issued by the company were those covering cotton and woolen goods stored in Old South Church.

Narcotic Agent Shot Near Home

Seattle, Jan. 2—P. L. Jourdin, Federal narcotic agent, was shot and critically wounded by an unknown assailant in front of his home here.

Jourdin was about to enter his automobile when four shots rang out from the shadows at the edge of the sidewalk. He fell to the pavement with a bullet wound in the abdomen, and lapsed into unconsciousness before he could give any description of his assailant.

MANAGER HELD IN 72 DEATHS

Paisley, Scotland, Jan. 2 (AP)—Charles Dorward, manager of the motion picture theater where 72 children died in a fire panic on Tuesday, was arrested today charged with culpable homicide.

At the same time this tragedy-saddened town was engaged in the task of planning funerals for the victims.

A few private funerals were held today, but nearly 70 other funerals were being arranged for tomorrow when special services will be held in Paisley churches.

Meanwhile undertakers both in Paisley and Glasgow have been working night and day preparing coffins for the victims. There will be double or triple funerals in five families which lost two or more children.

Most of the injured children are on the road to recovery and 14 have been sent home from the hospital. Of the 22 remaining in the hospital only two were in a serious condition.

Boy Shot When Pal Touches Trigger

Worcester, Jan. 2—Benjamin Dubin, 12, Woodford st., is the victim of a peculiar accident. While loading an air rifle at his home by dropping in the BB shot with his tongue, a playmate pulled the trigger. One of the shot struck his tongue and caromed off against his cheek.

The police seized all the air rifles in the neighborhood, mostly Christmas presents.

Files Bill Favoring Disabled Veterans

Senator Michael J. Ward of Boston today filed a bill with the Senate to amend the law on establishing local posts for veterans of the World War to include disabled veterans of the World War.

Cities and towns under the Ward bill would have the same authority to establish local post headquarters for these latter veterans as they now have for the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

POPE PAYS HIS LAST TRIBUTE TO BROTHER

By PRINCE PIGNATELLI

Copyright, 1930, by Universal Serv., Inc.

Vatican City, Jan. 2—The second exit of Pope Pius XI from within the boundaries of the Vatican State was a sad and tragic one in which he visited a hotel in Rome to consecrate the body of his brother, Count Fermo Ratti, who died Tuesday night.

Shortly before 6 a. m. today, the Pontiff, in a quiet procession of motor cars, was whisked from the Vatican to the Quirinal Hotel where his brother died.

At the porch of the hotel, the Pontiff was assisted from his car and shown quickly to the elevator with the other prelates who accompanied him. Present at the bedside were the Pope's sister, Camilla Ratti; the Marquis Persichetti Ugolino and his wife, niece of Pope Pius.

The Pontiff knelt in prayer near the body and afterward celebrated mass at a small altar erected in an adjoining room. The mass lasted for half an hour. The Pope granted a special blessing to the body of his brother and to all those present, then departed for the Vatican.

The funeral of Count Ratti will be held tomorrow at Old Church of St. Mary of the Angels.

Gen. Smuts Hasn't Smoked in 30 Years

Ottawa, Jan. 2 (AP)—Gen. Jan Christian Smuts has refrained from tobacco for 30 years. Offered a cigar at the home of Sir Robert Borden, he said he had not smoked since the British made tobacco so hard to get during the Boer War.

"Hungry Man" Is Sent Where He Can Get a Good Feed

For the larceny of two pints of milk from a Harrison ave. doorstep, John Martin, of Dover st., South End, was before Judge Dowd in municipal court today. "I took them home and drank them because I was hungry," Martin told the court.

"I'd let you go," said Judge Dowd, "only when you get hungry again you'll get into more trouble. I'll tell you what I'll do. Just between you and me there's an excellent menu over at the jail all this week. Go down there and fill up and on Saturday you come and see me and we'll go over your case again."

URGES OUTDOOR CAMPS TO EASE JAIL CROWDING

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 2 (AP)—Emergency measures to correct a situation credited with responsibility for recent inmate outbreaks in two of the State's prisons were submitted to the legislature today by Governor Roosevelt.

Outstanding among the proposals were those calling for immediate establishment of cantonments to quarter 500 convicts, who would be employed in outdoor work, to relieve prison congestion, and for the employment of 81 additional guards.

The governor's message followed by a day introduction of measures by Senator Caleb H. Baumes, Republican chairman of the State Crime Commission, calling for the expenditure of $10,000,000 for 1300 additional cells in its prison system; for a full-time parole board of three members to operate independently of the commission of correction and for an increased allowance for the convicts' food.

The governor previously had said his message of today would be but an initial phase of an extensive prison program.

"The truth," said the governor in discussing the general causes for the breaks "is that our prison system is antiquated and that even in our penal laws we are still in the experimental stage."

The governor declared overcrowding to be one of the major factors in the existing prison situation.

Increase of the present allowance of 25 cents a day a prisoner for food to 30 cents and an additional clothing allowance was recommended.

Halifax Rum Diver Is Caught on the Job

Halifax, N. S., Jan. 2 (AP)—Having been under water 5½ hours trying to salvage liquor, William Gregoire, 74-year-old diver, was in jail today awaiting a hearing Friday.

Gregoire was the only man arrested when city police arrived to assist two inland revenue agents who, Tuesday morning, encountered a gang attempting to salvage the contents of a sunken motor boat.

The gang dispersed when city police arrived, and two cars were then seized. Shots were fired during the melee and the agents were severely handled.

Gregoire said he had been working under water from 8 p. m. until 2:30 a. m., Tuesday morning, and had been promised $300 for the job. He pleaded not guilty to a charge of violating the customs act.

RECORD YEAR EXPECTED AT AIRPORT

By GEORGE HAMBLIN

After a year of steady growth, in which all records for amount of business in dollars and cents value were broken, commercial aviation in Boston looks forward to the coming 12 months to continue the logical, steady advance.

A review of the general situation at the Boston Airport shows Curtiss-Wright, Skyways and East Coast Aircraft grossing as an aggregate about three-quarters of a million dollars, and all three companies having plans laid for greater business for the coming year.

It is safe to predict that total business done by these three outfits, as best representing the commercial activities of Boston and New England, in the next 12 months will be in excess of a million dollars.

Starting with Skyways, Inc., in our review of commercial aviation, we find that the company, New England distributors of Stearman, Bellanca and Moth, grossed $225,000 for 1929, selling 25 ships, of all three makes, having 84 students on the books, 66 of whom received licenses, of which there were 11 transport tickets, 11 Limited Commercial, and the balance, 50, getting their private tickets.

TO ENLARGE SCHOOL

Plans for the coming year call for the enlargement of the flying school at Marston's Mills, which is the only year-round resident flying school in New England.

The service department at the Boston Airport will be improved with the installation of proper machinery and equipment, and business will be sought from this source to a larger degree than ever before.

The entire New England territory will be canvassed more thoroughly for sales of airplanes than before.

Looking at New England's only sales and service company, East Coast Aircraft Corp., we find that this outfit grossed about $160,000, although the company was not active for the full 12-month period.

We asked Frank LeMan, sales manager of the company, for the figures, and were told that the sales department, in operation for 10 months, made $130,000 worth of airplane sales, and the Wright engine service department, controlled exclusively in New England by East Coast, showed a gross of $30,000 for a six-month period.

The sales department fulfilled its quota of 25 airplanes for the past year, and 35 ships have been contracted for in 1930.

EXPECT 100 STUDENTS

Now that the palatial quarters at the Boston Airport are nearing completion, and the finest equipped sales and service building in the country is ready for business, the engine service has plans laid out for it to show well over $100,000 worth of business for the ensuing year.

Equipment worth $50,000 has been set up in the shops at East Boston, and the company can care for any number of Wright motors, four going through the overhaul line at the same time.

Curtiss-Wright Flying Service's Boston station showed a gross of $360,000 for the year, carrying over 50 active students on the books at one time, and with plans for the coming year to handle 100.

Harry Depew Copland, station manager, stated that he has been promised all the equipment needed to fulfill this quota of students, and that the instruction department will be augmented to make it bigger and better than ever.

All in all, flying will be done on a bigger scale than ever before, with more people using aviation to get places and to learn to fly their own airplanes.

Here's our wishes to all the boys throughout New England for a Happy, Prosperous New Year, with lots of Happy Landings.

Coolidge to Stay at Vinoy Park Hotel

St. Petersburg, Fla., Jan. 2—Former President Calvin Coolidge will be among the early January visitors at Vinoy Park Hotel, which opened Wednesday under the management of Clement E. Kennedy, president of the New Ocean House, at Swampscott, Mass. Mr. Coolidge will remain at Vinoy Park until the middle of January. Governor and Mrs. J. H. Trumbull of Connecticut are booked for Vinoy Park, to arrive January 13 for three weeks. Mr. Kennedy reports the largest advance reservations in the history of the hotel.

Among early arrivals were Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Hood, Mrs. George W. Fosterand Mrs. Henry F. Hurlburt of Boston, Mr and Mrs William M. Chase of Brookline and Dr. and Mrs. J. N. Jolliffe of Ware.

Revere Bungalow Swept by Flames

Fire early today destroyed the bungalow of William Sparks at 50 Newbury st., Revere, the blaze originating from an overheated furnace.

None of the family was home at the time. So rapidly did the flames spread that by the time the firemen arrived the structure was doomed and efforts were mainly directed toward preventing the fire from reaching other nearby houses. The loss is estimated at $5000.

Dismiss Jury in Rum Death Case

Abingdon, Va., Jan. 2—Court dismissed the jury considering the case of James McReynolds, Abingdon police officer, charged with killing J. W. Kendrick, 16-year-old student, after the jurors announced they could not agree on a verdict.

McReynolds was charged with the shooting of the student on the night of May 4 when officers said they attempted to stop an automobile they suspected of containing liquor.

CHAMBERMAIDS OF FRANCE IN REVOLT

Paris, Jan. 2 (AP) — Russian "Femes De Menage"—or, in English, chambermaids—are in revolt.

Repairing by hundreds from apartments to the left bank of the Seine they drew up a bill of rights for presentation to the households they serve. It reads:

"We the union of the Femme De Menage of Paris, have the honor to announce to you our ultimate and unalterable decisions, taken in general assembly.

"From now on we must have a fixed wage, not depending on the whims and humor of our employers. The tip, being a varying amount depending on change, should be fixed.

"From Jan. 1 we refuse to polish as well as to climb up ladders for purpose of shining window panes and keeping them in condition.

"We further ask for a respite for 15 minutes each morning, no deduction to be made from wages in consequence.

"We ask for double pay Sundays and holidays and not to have pay arbitrarily deducted sums for uniforms.

"After big dinners and receptions we ask for a supplementary sum for polishing the glasses and shining the silver."

The ultimatum is signed by three comrades, leaders of the union, Julie, Marie and Jeanne.

The regular wage of these maids is $12 to $16 a month. In provincial towns, it is $10 and in the country, less.

Except in Paris, the wages are never fixed. It is not unusual in the provinces for the workday to begin at half past five in the morning and last to nine, ten and eleven at night.

Wales to Be 'Ordinary Tourist' Aboard Ship

London, Jan. 2 (AP)—The Prince of Wales will leave tomorrow for Southampton aboard the steamer Kenilworth Castle to resume the tour which was interrupted last year by the illness of King George. He will first go to Capetown. He will return to England probably in April. The prince expects to do considerable hunting while away.

The heir to the British throne will sail aboard the Kenilworth Castle as an ordinary saloon passenger. All ceremony is to be done away with in accordance with his own wish. He will have plenty of company as the liner will carry about 500 passengers, most of them tourists.

The prince will take his meals in the ordinary dining saloon and otherwise will share in the ship's ordinary accommodations. The only exception will be when he sleeps, for a bedstead has been provided for his stateroom in place of the usual bunk.

LAST RITES FOR E. C. APPERSON

San Francisco, Jan. 2—Last rites were celebrated with Masonic solemnity for Elbert Clark Apperson, 78, brother of the late Mrs. Phoebe Apperson Hearst and uncle of William Randolph Hearst.

Members of Alisal Lodge No. 321, conducted the ceremonies, Dr. Hal Cope presiding at the Apperson home in Sunol and Thomas Silver as master of rites at the Oakland Cemetery, San Jose.

For more than 50 years Apperson had been active in the affairs of the Masonic fraternity and all the honors that can be accorded a member in death were his. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Apperson; his son, Randolph William Apperson, and a daughter, Mrs. Joseph Marshall Flint, wife of Dr. Flint, former professor at the University of California. The Flints now reside in Vienna.

HOOVER LAUDS ADVANCE OF NEGRO RACE

A personally signed letter from President Hoover was read to 2000 people attending a special mass meeting in Columbus Avenue Zion Church, celebrating the 67th anniversary of Lincoln's emancipation of the negroes.

The President wrote:

"The anniversary of the emancipation proclamation is a fitting time for the colored citizens of our country to celebrate the progress of their race. I know that any summary of that progress will be most impressive to the whole nation, for it is indeed a remarkable showing."

While signing this letter President Hoover sat in the chair used by Lincoln as he put his signature to his great document.

The assembly formally voted to urge a nation-wide observance on February 12, in "memory of Lincoln and other abolitionists."

A resolution was adopted commending the President for his stand on unemployment. Entry into the League of Nations or World Court was opposed in a resolution.

Several distinguished speakers addressed the meeting. Subscriptions were received toward the national fund of $50,000 for the dormitory needed by Boydton Institute in Virginia, of which Prof. Julius F. Martin of Boston is principal. Funds may be sent to Prof. Simon Drew at 506 Shawmut ave.

California's Bank of Italy Now 4th Largest in U.S.

San Francisco, Jan. 2 (AP)—California has produced, for the first time in its history, a billion dollar bank—the Bank of Italy. Publication of the annual statement today revealed assets of $1,055,000,000, showing a gain for 1929 of $200,000,000.

The Bank of Italy thus becomes the fourth bank of the United States to enter the billion dollar class and the first one west of the Mississippi river. The others are the National City Bank of New York, the Guaranty Trust Company of New York and the Continental Illinois Bank of Chicago.

2 KILLED OVER PREACHER

Sandoval, Ill., Jan. 2 (INS)—"Is your heart all right this morning"

This is the question George M Lyons, 31, asked his wife Patricia just before blowing out her brains with a shotgun, the coroners' inquest revealed today.

Lyons, who revealed in a suicide note that he was jealous of a minister, unnamed in the note, then turned the weapon on himself.

Lyons had given the suicide note to Ferdie, 12, his son. When a neighbor, Dick Newman, had received the missive from the hand of the unsuspecting child, he summoned police who found the bodies.

The baby of the family was in the room with her dead parents crying.

At the inquest Ferdie testified the name of Rev. Raymond Rankin, pastor of the church attended by the Lyons, had entered many times into quarrels between his father and mother. The minister denied undue friendship for Mrs. Lyons.

Herewith is the solution to Tuesday's puzzle.

3 Greater Boston Men Held in N. Y.

New York, Jan. 2 (AP)—Three Massachusetts men arrested here as "suspicious," and who were said to resemble three men who held up a Chinese restaurant 10 days ago, appeared in the police lineup today. They described themselves as John Bartlett, 21, of Harding ave. Malden; Walter Baker, 19, of Lee st., Somerville, and Gordon J. Roberts, 24, of Buckley st., Quincy.

Detectives said Baker had two loaded pistols. He claimed he had intended to deliver them to a man in Philadelphia.

AMERICAN BUSINESS OUTLOOK FOR 1930 FAVORABLE

By FRANK H. MELOON
Financial Editor

Boston and the rest of New England are justified in looking for 1930 to prove itself as a whole a prosperous year.

Leaders in fields of business and finance are in general agreement that the outlook is good, with fundamental conditions sound.

Following the reaction in the stock market, general business was less affected than most people feared it would be. Over-production in certain major industries was found to be the principal condition calling for readjustment, already under way long before the market's collapse.

Developments since the Wall St. break have in the main combined to support the optimism of leaders.

NO ONE IS PREDICTING "BOOM TIMES," BUT THERE IS INTENSIVE STUDY OF METHODS TO ESTABLISH MORE CLOSE RELATIONS BETWEEN SUPPLY AND DEMAND IN INDUSTRIAL PRODUCTION. IT IS WIDELY FELT THAT HERE LIES THE KEY TO THE CONTINUANCE AND EXPANSION OF PROSPERITY.

Many business leaders were surprised by the negligible effect of the stock break on holiday business. They were more than surprised, for they were also pleased. It gave them more confidence for the immediate future.

It was finally realized that inflation of stock prices earlier in the year had not moved with a corresponding advance in commodity prices or accumulation of inventories. The once denounced hand-to-mouth buying, an outgrowth of modern improved transportation, was found to have proved a saving factor.

Outstanding in importance is the assurance of business executives that no effort will be made to reduce workers' wages during 1930. This is the first time such a collective assurance has been made. It promises maintenance of public buying power on a large scale for the current year.

Our prediction of a big year for industry early in 1929 was based upon observance of many of the same signs visible on today's horizon. Then, as now, we disregarded the "apostles of gloom," who are always among us.

With export trade of considerable importance, it is interesting to visualize the improvement reported overseas. While we are by far our own "best customer," and will be so for many long years to come, export trade is needed. A lot of our prosperity has been built upon it.

One of the big revelations 1930 has to bring us will be the result of the current outward movement of gold upon our export trade. Many believe the effect will be very highly beneficial.

A banker explains: "The decline in the total amount of credit employed in stock transactions has brought about a marked easing of money rates. This, in turn, has led to the withdrawal of more foreign funds from this market and has thus precipitated one of the most rapid outward gold movements ever experienced here; total shipments for the last two months reached a total of approximately $100,000,000.

"The movement, however, was fully expected and represents a natural consequence of the reduced demand for speculative credit. It may be properly regarded as merely a return abroad of a part of the gold that flowed into this country during the period of swift price inflation that preceded the crash.

"The possibility of a continuance of the present export movement is, therefore, regarded without concern." It has been generally believed that a further redistribution of the heavy stock of gold in the United States was inevitable sooner or later, and the present situation is considered to offer a favorable opportunity for effecting it.

"Not only is the export of gold occurring at a time when it will exert little adverse influence on American business, but it is filling a real and urgent need in foreign markets, where the absorption of gold by the American security markets earlier this year caused difficulty in several ways. By contributing to the restoration of normal conditions abroad, it will, over the longer term, be an important constructive factor in world trade, including, of course, the foreign commerce of the United States.

"The opinion has been expressed that the movement will continue until an amount roughly equivalent to the previous accumulation—that is, between $200,000,000 and $300,000,000—shall have left this country; and, it is believed by some authorities, that as much as $400,000,000 could be spared without the slightest detriment to the domestic credit situation.

"It must be understood, however, that the favorable effects of the current gold shipments cannot become apparent immediately. The net gain in London gold holdings thus far has not been great, and the liquidation of the frozen credits in several foreign centers due to the loss of gold and the subsequent tightening of credit throughout the world will require time. If the redistribution of the metal continues at the rate that is generally expected, a period of perhaps six months should suffice to make its influence fully manifest.

"It has been assumed that the demand for funds for year-end settlements will result in a temporary advance in money rates. Some stiffening has, in fact, already taken place. But this tendency is expected to be only temporary. The outlook for the longer term is for a continuance of rates at a much lower level than has been the rule during the past year."

Bond Yield Better Than in Good Stocks

At recent peak of the Dow-Jones average of industrial stocks the average yield on the 28 dividend-paying stocks of the list was only about 3.31 per cent, or substantially less than the yield on good bonds, both of which yields were much below the 60-90-day time money rate of 8¾ per cent to 9 per cent at that time. Good stocks on the average on November 13 yielded more than high grade bonds, a relationship

1930 Oil Outlook Seen as Moderately Favorable

CONSUMPTION of crude oil and gasoline during 1929 has been at record breaking levels although the continued overproduction of crude petroleum has minimized to a large extent the benefits of the increased consumption. While very little real progress has been made in the past year in obtaining a better balance between supply and demand the restrictive measures voluntarily adopted by many producers are expected to bring about a stronger statistical position in the industry during the coming year, says William T. Yetman, prominent financial authority.

Production of crude petroleum during the 10 months ended October 31 amounted to 847,103,000 barrels and for the full year will in all probability be slightly more than 1,000,000,000 barrels. This latter figure compares with 900,364,000 barrels production in 1928, an increase of almost 12 per cent. While crude production has increased in every year since 1924 with the exception of 1928, the past year's increase is the second largest during these five years both in physical volume and percentage.

During the last quarter considerable success has been obtained in the reduction of crude production. Due chiefly to the recently enacted Lyon Act in California and the co-operative efforts of producers in Oklahoma and Kansas, crude production has been brought down from the peak of 2,865,400 barrels daily during the second week of September to 2,622,250 barrels daily during the week ending December 14. Despite curtailment efforts total stocks of oil on October 31 amounted to 680,790,000 barrels, the highest figure ever and 66,255,000 larger than at the end of 1928. Based on the October rate of demand, however, this huge reserve amounts to only 212 days' supply compared with 232 on March 31, 1929, and 220 on December 31, 1928.

Supplies on hand at the end of 1929 will figure close to 690,000,000 barrels, a new high figure and over 75,000,000 barrels above that in storage on Dec. 31, 1928. This increase in oil stocks can be attributed almost solely to the excessive rate of crude production as the increase in stocks amounts to about 11.5 per cent, while domestic crude production increased 12 per cent.

Consumption of all oils for the first 10 months of 1929 totaled 820,323,000 barrels and is likely to exceed 1,100,000,000 barrels for the full year. Based on the latter figure demand for all oils shows the highest percentage increase (8.7 per cent) of any year in the last five years and compares with a 7 per cent increase in 1928 and a 3.8 per cent increase in 1927.

Gasoline consumption in 1929 for the first 10 months amounted to 365,490,000 barrels. Consumption of over 438,000,000 barrels is expected for the whole year, an increase of 12.5 per cent over 1928 when 381,729,000 barrels consumed in 1928. Increased usage of automobiles, trucks and airplanes have contributed to the greater demand for gasoline while exports of gasoline for the first 10 months totaled 31,150,000 barrels, a 13 per cent increase over the corresponding period of 1928 and only 2,647,000 barrels less than the full year 1928 exports of 33,797,000 barrels.

During the first three months gasoline stocks increased rapidly from 36,066,000 barrels on Dec. 31, 1928, to 68,203,000 on March 31, 1929. Since then, the heavy summer demand for gasoline has brought about a reduction in these stocks to 35,042,000 on October 31. Figured at the October rate of consumption, gasoline on hand at the end of October amounted to only 27 days' supply.

The record volume of business has enabled the oil companies to report favorable earnings for the first nine months. Net profits of nineteen representative petroleum companies for nine months ended Sept. 30 totaled $117,068,000 compared with $79,863,000 for the same period of 1928, an increase of $37,305,000 or 46.4 per cent. Fourth quarter earnings are likely to be affected adversely by lower crude and gasoline prices but the aggregate 1929 profits of oil companies will be substantially above those for 1928.

GREETINGS

NEW ENGLAND'S LARGE INDUSTRIAL PLANTS

Steel Operations Turning Upward

Youngstown, O. Jan. 2—Independents here will operate 28 out of 51 open hearth furnaces this week, for an average production rate of 35 per cent. Bessemer plants are being maintained at 65 per cent. Steel Corp. plants in this district are averaging 60 per cent in steel departments.

A. M. Byers Co. resumes operations at its Girard works on double turn basis. Youngstown Sheet & Tube and Republic Steel are averaging 50 per cent, and Sharon Steel Hoop reports scheduling in excess of 70 per cent. Of 120 sheet mills in the Mahoning Valley, 71 are scheduled, a larger number than the December average. Strip mill production averages 60 per cent, independent bar mills 60 per cent, while tin mills are on the same relative basis. Pipe mills, however, experiencing seasonal declines, are not active above 40 per cent.

Further Decline in Loans Foreseen

Journal of Commerce says further steady decline in loans made to brokers by corporations and other non-banking lenders looked for in banking circles in the near future.

These loans still amount to more than 53 per cent of the total, but it is claimed that temporary factors are keeping up total of stock advances at present.

Life insurance is a valuable complement to an investment program

To thousands life insurance, used as a savings and investment plan, is giving financial independence. From the viewpoint of availability for every individual, safety and permanent value, certainty of return, easily carried cost, and control by the investor,—it is a solid rock on which to build personal and family security.

If liquidation is necessary or desirable, you receive a fair and immediate settlement of your equities.

Should you be permanently disabled, you receive a definite income regularly, and your insurance is continued without further payment.

If financial accommodation is needed, your policy can be used to tide you over.

Your beneficiary will receive in full the amount you have decided upon, no matter how few payments you have made.

If you live, you will receive the amount yourself.

A mutual company returning annual dividends and offering a policy for every need.

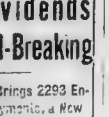
Today's Shower Of Dividends Record-Breaking

The Year Brings 2293 Enlarged Payments, a New Total, This Reveals

—By B. C. FORBES—



B. C. Forbes

IN one interesting respect, 1929 easily eclipsed all previous years; no fewer than 2293 important dividend announcements came last year, contrasted with 1468 in the previous year and 1179 in 1927.

December proved the banner month in dividend history. It brought 491 favorable dividend declarations, against 387 in November, 191 in October and only 181 in September.

The record-breaking number of favorable dividend distributions during the last two months.

But even before then 1929 was overshadowing 1928 and all previous years dividendwise. Corporation profits in the first half of last year showed on the whole, extraordinary gains—various companies give the increase in 1928 as "per cent up to almost 30 per cent. The third quarter was not correspondingly satisfactory, and, of course, the final quarter was distinctly less. Nevertheless, the 1929 earnings records will compare favorably with even the best of earlier piece-time years.

Under these circumstances, even leaving out of count the new sunshiny method of handling panics, it was entirely natural that companies should treat their shareholders more generously. This table shows the form taken by the increased dividend announcements made last month by industrial, public utilities and railway companies:

	IND	P. U.	R.R.
Extra	202	4	8
Initial	56	1	1
Increased	47	3	1
Resumed	5	1	1
Total	311	9	11
Totals	347	13	11

Of course, the Wall Street upheaval hit some organizations rather severely, especially investment trusts. As a consequence, a number of unfavorable dividend announcements were forthcoming—14 payments were omitted, seven deferred and five decreased, a total of 26, compared with 20 in November.

As the little tasks already given them, public utility and railway companies do not figure nearly as prominently as do industrial and miscellaneous enterprises in the favorable dividend statistics. The features last month to which the unprecedented number of extra payments, namely 214, of which total public utilities contributed only nine and the railroads eight. This reveals that many directors felt that the abnormal conditions created by the stock market collapse justified special disbursements, though not necessarily increased in the regular dividend rates.

The following table summarizes the improved dividend payments each month since 1924:

	1929	1928	1927	1926	1925
January	139	111	89	67	60
February	108	86	81	72	53

December	491	227	208	163	80
Totals	2293	1468	1179	1023	791

It is interesting to note just how last year's new maximums of 2,293 improved dividends was composed. This table summarizes the record for the three classifications—industrial, public utility and railway—employed in compiling these exclusive figures for this column.

The shower of dividend checks is by far transcends anything heretofore recorded for one day's mailing start for 1930.

CURB MARKET IS MOVED UP AND DOWN

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER

New York, Jan. 2 (AP)—The curb market began the new year with a vigorous rally, but soon appeared to have over exerted itself, as a moderate reaction set in during the early afternoon. The morning rally was evidently a continuation of Tuesday's upturn, which was in a large measure influenced by short covering. Trading was in light volume, and of an almost entirely professional character.

Investment trusts were stimulated by the annual reports of Lehman Corp. and the National Investors group, which were more favorable than had been anticipated in view of the severity of the autumn decline.

Lehman Corp. sold up more than 5 points before the midday reaction. Third and Fourth National Investors made moderate gains. National Investors, however, appeared to have discounted the report in its 3-point gain of Tuesday and sold off on profit-taking.

Utilities were firm for a time, but turned downward with the general market later. Electric Bond and Share sold up more than 2 points, but more than lost its gain in the downturn. Northern States Power A shot up 13 points in a few sales, then reacted. American Light and Commonwealth Edison mounted 8 and 5 points during the morning.

Glen Alden Coal, which has recently had a wide advance in responses to the merger with Lehigh-Wilkes-Barre, slipped back several points in realizing. American Cigar dropped 6 points to another new low at 70 on passing of the dividend. This issue has been persistently weak of late, foreshadowing the dividend announcement. It rallied somewhat from its low level, however.

Some of the air stocks were in fair demand, on optimistic predictions as to the new year's prospects. Aviation Corp. of the Americas and Fokker were among issues selling up more than 2 points. Ottis Elevator new jumped several points, then lost most of its gain. Chesapeake & Ohio new stock sold up more than 3 points.

Oils were firm, reflecting the favorable crude production report for last week, but failed to make much headway.

Mellon Says Trade Revival Will Give U. S. Prosperity

Washington, Jan. 2—Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon declares a trade revival is coming and that 1930 will be a year of progress and prosperity for the United States. He says: "The Government itself is in a position to do its part in helping the country to meet and solve the problems which are ahead."

WILKINS MAPS 300 MILES OF COASTLINE

BY CAPT. SIR HUBERT WILKINS
Commander of the Wilkins-Hearst Antarctic Expedition

Copyright, 1930, by the Boston American and Universal Service, Inc. Copyright in Great Britain, France (literary and all other countries. Reproduction prohibited in whole or in part.

Deception Island, Antarctica, Jan. 3 (Via S. S. Melville and KUP, San Francisco Examiner Wireless Station)—Three hundred miles of coast line have been added to the world's map on the last day of 1929.

After once being balked by a curtain of snow in an attempt to penetrate the unknown Antarctic regions which lie before us, we completed a successful flight of 450 miles in the Lockheed monoplane, Los Angeles.

Charcot Land we found to be an island.

Looking beyond it we saw more than 100 miles into the depths of the great white south. We flew on westward over Hearst Land, discovered last year with Carl Ben Eielson, who is now lost in the ice-bound regions at the other end of the world, and we succeeded in charting the coast line for 300 miles along the great Antartic continent.

Our success of today is due to the great pioneer piloting of Eielson—one of the best companions we have ever known.

The start of our flight was made from the side of our small vessel, the Williams Scoresby, which was here to at the edge of the ice pack, some 115 miles from the nearest land. And when we finally returned to the side of the Scoresby, disaster frowned on us, but we luckily escaped.

As we were lifting the plane aboard the vessel, the sling broke and the plane almost went to the bottom of the sea—2,000 odd feet below the surface of the icy water. The plane suffered little damage, however. (Capt. Wilkins has evidently taken the wheels of his plane the Los Angeles and fitted it with floats. He is apparently using it as a seaplane.)

Our first attempt three days ago was blocked just at the moment when success seemed within our grasp. We had been waiting for days within the lee of a great ice-berg, planning to take off when the swell died down. Attempting to take off, the floats hammered against the lumpy waves and the bracings were strained. It was necessary to lift the plane aboard the Scoresby again.

Later, we started into the ice-pack and found smoother water and were able to take off. Flying more than 200 miles over the ice, headed due south, we came within a few miles of Charcot Land when our path was blocked by an impenetrable wall of falling snow. It was too high to climb over, so we dropped to five hundred feet altitude and tried to fly beneath it.

The priest was stricken ill last week because he walked home without his overcoat which he had given to a beggar.

4 BOSTON COAL COMPANIES MERGED

The merger of four large coal companies into a single concern is announced in the formation of the Batchelder-Whittemore Coal Company.

The officers of the new company are announced as: John L. Batchelder, chairman of the board; George L. Batchelder, Jr., president; Winslow B. Felton, John A. Whittemore, Jr., and Theodore P. Whittemore, vice-presidents; Donald L. Whittemore, treasurer. John A. Whittemore, Sr., will continue as a director.

The company will maintain coal yards in Brighton, Charlestown, East Boston, Beck Bay, South Boston, Massachusetts ave., Forest Hills, West Roxbury and Norwood.

The coal yards are prepared to serve the needs of 15 communities, insuring a fuel supply regardless of weather conditions to places as far south as Sharon and as far north as Melrose.

Donald L. Whittemore, treasurer, in discussing the merger, emphasized that it in no sense does away with the individual service which fuel users have enjoyed in the several companies.

The oldest company in the quartet was founded in 1862 by John L. Batchelder and his brother, who soon after was lost at sea, as Batchelder Brothers. Later Batchelder's sons, John L., Jr., and George L., succeeded to the business.

John A. Whittemore's Sons, Inc., was founded in 1880 by John A. Whittemore, Sr. Later his sons, John A., Jr., Theodore P. and Donald L., became members of the partnership.

The Burton-Furber Coal Co., one of the oldest of Boston coal companies, has specialized in the better grades of bituminous coal and this department of the organization will continue specializing in supplying bituminous. E. H. Furber will remain in an executive capacity, as will Arthur E. Mansfield, also of the company.

The Batchelder & Felton Coal Co., while of comparatively recent origin, being organized in 1925, was founded by men closely allied with the larger company of similar name.

For COLDS

We all catch colds and they can make us miserable; but yours needn't last long if you will do this: Take two or three tablets of Bayer Aspirin just as soon as possible after a cold starts. Stay in the house if you can—keep warm. Repeat with another tablet or two of Bayer Aspirin every three or four hours, if those symptoms of cold persist. Take a good laxative when you retire, and keep bowels open. If throat is sore, dissolve three tablets in a quarter-glassful of water and gargle. This soothes inflammation and reduces infection. There is nothing like Bayer Aspirin for a cold, or sore throat. And it relieves aches and pains almost instantly. The genuine tablets, marked Bayer, are absolutely harmless to the heart.

BAYER ASPIRIN

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

CHAPTER 50

GUY'S voice went shouting down the canyon. The last echo dropped into profound, unbroken silence. No figure emerged.

He took a shot directly at the base of the stone shaft.

As the pebbles went scattering, someone jumped; someone yelled in alarm: "Don't shoot! Good God, don't shoot!"

A man with hands raised, bolted from the rocks. He advanced cautiously, disturbing the vast, sunny quiet with his hoarse, repeated appeal.

Guy remained in the cockpit, covering him with the pistol. At one hundred paces he made out with shock and horror, the lithe form and dark, comely head. At fifty feet he could no longer deny the identification.

There went through him a hurricane, utterly wasting obliterating thought and hope. Of all the men on the face of the earth, Sheik Montgomery was the last with whom he would willingly have victioned Pat. An expert mechanic—one of the best in the plant—but a scoundrel whose scandalous amours furnished color for the numberless smoking room tales and whose gambling and cheating had half a dozen times cost him his jobs. What ten days with this profligate might have meant for Pat, he dared not think.

Something of his surging desolation struck through the sharp: "Hall! Keep your hands up. Turn your back."

"Good God! Elliott!"

"One move, Montgomery—It's your last. Stand where you are."

Guy glanced toward the ledge below where the wrapped figure lay. He asked in loud demand. "Who's with you?"

"Partridge."

"Where?"

"Down the cliff 300 feet on the ledge to the left of you. He's done. Leg broken—bone shooting through—turning black."

"Who else?"

"No one else."

"Where are the girl and the kid?"

"I don't know."

"Montgomery, the first lie is your last. I'm here to find her. She sent me a radio from that set right over there in the plane you stole. She was here Monday. Where is she now?"

"She jumped Monday. Over the cliff. Got a parachute, took the kid and jumped."

Said Guy, wiping an icy moisture from his forehead. "Go on. What happened after the jump?"

"It was late Monday afternoon—too near dark to follow. Tuesday morning we went down to get them. She ran into a cave. That's the last we saw of her."

"You didn't follow into that cave?"

"Yes, but we had no light. 'Slim' crashed down a drop—broke his leg. Had to drag him out. Spent yesterday looking for an easier way up here. This morning I drained oil from the engine, put it in a can, made a torch of cotton waste, lords for the Searched two hours. She's not in the cave now."

"Did Partridge guard the mouth of that cave while you came back to get the light?"

"Yes."

"And neither she nor the boy came out?"

"No—but there may be some other exit, and she found it."

"Are you quite sure, Montgomery, that you didn't shove her down that drop where Partridge smashed?"

"My God! I never touched her! She knew we'd found a road out and were taking the kid. She didn't want that. And she thought we were going to leave her here—didn't know what we might do with her. She was afraid of Slim. So she jumped."

"From where?" Guy asked in bitter quiet.

Sheik pointed to the forbidding, overhanging rock.

Guy shuddered. Oh, the extremity to which they drove her if she dared that sickening plunge!

"Walk over to the ledge, Montgomery," he ordered grimly. Keep your hands up and your back turned to this plane and to me.

LYNN WOMAN AND TWO MEN KILLED BY POISON RUM

Windows Crash as Crowd Storms So. Station for Jobs

Pair of Pretty 'Tars'

Julia Norkus — Phyllis Conreau

The fleet may be in, but police of Charlestown were amazed, nevertheless, when they saw these two "sailors" parading the streets. The girls, Julia Norkus, 18, of 1 st., South Boston, and Phyllis Conreau, 18, of Bird st., Quincy, were detained at Station 15. (Staff photo.)

SAILOR'S GARB BAD FOR GIRLS

Parading through City sq., Charlestown, attired in the uniforms of United States sailors, got two 18-year-old girls, Phyllis Comeau of Bird st., Quincy, and Julia Norkus of 1 st., South Boston, in trouble, not only with the police, who took them under their care but also their parents in whose custody they were released.

No charge will be brought against them.

The girls said they attended a party in Massachusetts ave., with two sailors. The party became very hot as the hours passed, especially as it neared dawn.

It was then the girls said their sailor friends turned over their uniforms to each of them and dared them to go to Charlestown and walk about.

3 DEAD FROM POISON RUM IN LYNN

Woman and Two Men Are Thought to Be Victims of New Year's Celebration

Three were dead today in Lynn from poison liquor, aftermath, according to police, of New Year's celebrations.

Mrs. Rozella J. Sullivan was found dead in her home by her husband early today.

Following an autopsy, Medical Examiner Nathaniel P. Breed declared that death was due to poison liquor and veronal. When police attempted to enter her home and remove the women, not then known to be dead, an Airdale dog, called "Pal" blocked their entrance until he was coaxed away.

The second victim was Stanley Tokarz, 50, of River st., found dead in his room in River st. Tokars' wife, police said, committed suicide two years ago.

Police had just entered this on the blotter when another call came

This told of the death of an unidentified man at Union and Almont sts.

The unidentified man, about 60 years old, six feet tall and wearing a brown hat and brown overcoat, had a bottle partly filled with poison liquor when he was picked up.

MOVES TO OUST ROXBURY JUDGE

Senator Michael J. Ward of Boston today filed a bill to abolish the municipal court of Roxbury and to establish a new court there to be known as the Roxbury district court.

Ward, who is expected to be Mayor-elect Curley's spokesman on the Hill, frankly admits that the change is for the purpose of getting rid of Joseph Keene, probation officer, and one of the judges advanced in age

The senator complains that the Roxbury court, on recommendations of the probation officer, is treating first offenders and minor law violators as hardened offenders.

"The court needs a thorough house cleaning," Ward commended. "Since the probation officer is appointed by the judge, the only way to accomplish the removal is by abolishing the court and terminating the tenure of office of the judge."

87 of New Year's Jags Freed, 35 Jailed

It was "the morning after" in Municipal court today with 122 New Year's celebrators who had imbibed too freely called to the bar of judgment

Many heads were swathed with bandages, many eyes were blackened and here and there a nose was out of joint. A sort of dry taste went all around the room. Judge Murray leaned forward on the bench and surveyed the shock troops, then called the first case.

"You look as if you'd been through a real battle," His Honor remarked to the first defendant, who resembled a hospital ward

PUNISHED ENOUGH.

"I have, Your Honor," was the reply. "I don't know where it was or when it was, but it was quite a battle."

"Well," said the judge, "It's a new year. Give up the moonshine. Case on file.

The next defendant was very weary. His eyes, that had been blue, were black. There was a large piece of plaster over one ear. With every movement it was evident his head throbbed

"Guilty or not guilty?" asked the court.

"Guilty, Your Honor, but I've been punished enough."

"That is probably so," said Judge Murray. "Next case."

The third defendant had been through a war if the first two had merely engaged in fisticuffs

35 MUST REPENT.

"Ah, said the judge, "you've enough decorations to be a hero Where did you collect them?"

"It was a dance hall. Your Honor. They hung them on me there."

"Well," said the judge, "it's 1930. That will be a good dance hall to stay out of this year

One by one they answered their names, chewed cotton batting and lifted throbbing heads. Eighty-seven whom the court deemed had been punished sufficiently were discharged

Thirty-five were given several days each in which to regain peace of mind and body and make New Year resolutions behind the bars.

45,000 BAY STATE WORLD WAR VETS FACE LOSS OF BONUS

APPLIED TOO LATE, SAYS BLAKE

Only a Special Ruling by Mc Carl in Washington Can Legalize Their Claims

Nearly 45,000 Massachusetts veterans of the World War may lose bonuses to which they were entitled, on account of applying too late for them.

Under the law their applications were to have been on file in the various Army, Navy, and Marine departments in Washington at midnight tonight.

Unless a special ruling is made those who made last-minute application today in Massachusetts will be out of luck, according to Col. William B. Blake, head of the local veterans' bureau at 500 Washington st., which was swamped today by applicants.

500 APPLY TODAY

During the early part of the day today more than 500 veterans stormed the Boston veterans' bureau to file applications. Application blanks were given them, but officials at the bureau held out no hope that they would be honored on reaching Washington.

Nearly all of the last-minuters applicants said they were under the impression they could file applications here up to midnight tonight. They were told that Congress specifically stated in the law that was passed that the applications must be on file in the headquarters of the various departments of service in Washington by midnight tonight.

"The law says that these applications must be on file in the headquarters of the various departments of service in Washington at midnight tonight," said Col. Blake. Comptroller Gen. J. C. McCarl, in charge of the various departments, may interpret that applications mailed before midnight tonight will be honored, but I do not know what he will do. Congress may rectify matters by an amendment, but as things stand now the men applying late lose.

MANY WERE CARELESS

"Some of the veterans who made last-minute application today were men who were originally opposed to the bonus, but who eventually decided to accept it.

"Others were merely careless in waiting so long.

"Many widows of veterans failed to apply for the bonus.

"Of 197,000 Massachusetts veterans eligible for bonuses, 45,000 had not made proper application for them."

East Boston Ferry Rates Increased

Slightly more than the usual amount of money was offered from motorists who used the East Boston ferries on New Year's Day, when the new rates went into effect, and the number of vehicles transported was a bit less than normal for such a holiday, according to John F. Sullivan, superintendent of the ferry service.

However, he explained, yesterday's traffic can in no wise be used to gauge the popularity of the new schedule. Nor were yesterday's receipts useful as an indication of whether the customary $750,000 annual deficit will be wiped out by the new rates, for most of the income is derived from heavy commercial trucks.

Locate Old Explorer in Charlestown

The New Year brought genuine pleasure to Comdr. Donald B. MacMillan, Arctic explorer, today, when his long desire to locate Patrick Joyce, a shipmate of 20 years ago, was fulfilled.

Acting upon a suggestion made by the commander on his recent trip to Boston, the discovery of Joyce's whereabouts was made by a Boston Evening American reporter, who found the long-sought seal hunter in residence at 81 Fenwin st., Charlestown.

Joyce has been broken in health since 1927, as the direct result of his vigorous life in the Far North. He is confined to his Charlestown home and dependent upon his children for support.

For eight years Charlestown has harbored the unheralded trapper and explorer.

Modest in the extreme, Joyce dropped out of contact with even his former associates and, after 20 years, only a chance note to Comdr. MacMillan revealed whereabouts.

As one of the crew on Admiral Peary's intrepid S. S. Roosevelt in 1908-09, and an eye-witness to Peary's departure on the last lap of his successful dash to the North Pole, Joyce was highly honored by both the late Admiral Peary and then Lieut. MacMillan.

"Joyce," said Commander MacMillan recently, "was one of the most valuable and thoroughly likable men on that dangerous expedition. He was a man whose courage and constant good humor did much to maintain the sagging morale of the crew, facing as it did bitter death in its cruelest forms."

Well known in Northern Labrador as an expert seal-fisherman, Joyce was aboard the S. S. Roosevelt when it was ice-bound for nine months, only seven and one-half degrees from the Pole.

The exposure suffered on this trip had its effect upon Joyce and he was not benefited by subsequent work in the iron mines of Belle Island.

Two years later he was a member of the expedition under Capt Parsons that carried the ill-fated explorer-trapper Janes, to Baffin Land and his murder by Eskimos.

Forced at last to give up his work in the Far North, Joyce came here from Newfoundland in 1922, settling immediately in Charlestown.

Unable to work and no longer fitted for the rigors of Arctic exploration Joyce finds little consolation in reminiscing over his many adventures of the past.

"What's the use of talking?" he said. "People wouldn't believe me if I said I was with Peary. They wouldn't care anyway," he added resignedly.

HUB ADDS TWO CONVENTIONS

Two more conventions for Boston during 1930 were assured today. The American Historical Association at Durham, N. Harvard and Boston universities are to be joint hosts. It is the 45th annual meeting.

At Baton Rouge, La., the American Association of Teachers of Journalism selected Boston University for the association's 1930 convention.

H. H. Center, Boston University, was chosen as a member of the executive committee.

IMPERSONATES COP; GETS $5

Officer John M. Ackerley of the Cambridge police was impersonated by a man collecting money on his name, police of that city reported today.

Mrs. Olive Messier, who runs a boarding house on Read st., Cambridge, complained to Capt. Edward J. Welch that "Officer Ackerley" had come to her house and demanded $5 to keep one of her boarders out of jail. After paying the money she said she became suspicious and decided to go to the police.

Investigation revealed that Officer Ackerley's good name was being used by someone. By a description given by Mrs. Messier police interviewed one David Farquet, 23, of Fair Oaks st., Cambridge, who, after admitting guilt, according to police, implied that it was a whimsical prank.

He returned the money to Mrs. Messier and was afterward arrested on a charge of drunkenness.

TEST FOR POLICE CAPTAIN TO BE COMPETITIVE

Goodwin Assails the Selective System of Awarding Promotions

Civil Service Commissioner Elliot H. Goodwin today ruled that the examination for captian in the Boston police department, scheduled for January 17, will be a competitive one.

Heretofore the police commissioner had the right to appoint anyone from the lists established for this grade regardless of their standing. With the competitive feature established for the first time, the commissioner will be restricted in his choice to the top of the list.

All lieutenants with three years of service in their grade will be eligible to take the test.

Goodwin stated that the change has been made in the interest of uniformity. Competitive examinations are now in effect throughout the state.

He declared that the non-competitive selection in the Boston police department had been "sticking out like a sore thumb," in spite of the fact that it was the general practice under the old system to select men for promotion from the head of the list.

Mulligan commended Mrs. Fitzpatrick for her work as a citizen-in-telephone poles and offered her his services.

90 years

NINETY years mark the transition from the tiny UNICORN and the BRITANNIA of 1840 to the modern BERENGARIA and AQUITANIA . . . a striking change from wooden paddle-wheel steamers 207 feet long and 1135 gross tons to the 52,000 tons steamer measuring 919 feet in length.

In these ninety years, speed has developed from the eight or nine knots of the HIBERNIA to the twenty-seven knots of the MAURETANIA. From the JOHN BELL and TEMPEST of 1856, it is a long step forward to the de luxe cruising steamers CALEDONIA and TRANSYLVANIA of today . . . the popular SERVIA of 1881 yields to the luxurious CARINTHIA and FRANCONIA of 1930.

Time passes; steamers have changed from wood to iron to steel; paddle-wheels have given way to screw propellers; electric lights, radio, submarine signals, have removed earlier handicaps, but—CUNARD standards of service, throughout the ninety years, are unchanged. » » In 1930 as in 1840, "THERE IS NO BETTER WAY."

PROTEST BIG NAVY YARD LAYOFFS

Workers Expected to Make Plea to Secretary Adams During His Hub Visit

Secretary of the Navy Adams, who is scheduled to be the guest of the Boston Chamber of Commerce at a dinner today, may be petitioned by navy yard workers to end the continuous laying off of workers at the yard.

A representative of the Charlestown council of unions of mechanics revealed the protest plans. He declared that 60 additional men were laid off at the yard on New Year's eve and that others are scheduled to go this week or next, which will bring the number let out within a few weeks close to 300.

Because of these conditions, representatives of the council hoped to be in a position to lay the matter before the Secretary during his stay in Boston, as they feel that, with the President appealing to private enterprises to help relieve present unemployment by further expansion and expenditures, the government should lead the way by at least retaining present forces in its own yards and arsenals.

"Madam, there are six feet of evidence against you before you start. But I assure you that all these witnesses will not testify in a larceny case where the value of the alleged stolen goods is but $5.

"I don't believe that you stole or intended to steal the skis and I will direct your questioning."

The woman then testified that she selected a pair of skis at the store and then ordered them sent to her home C. O. D. Before she left the store she decided that she would carry them home herself rather than risk late delivery.

"My boy was disappointed last Christmas because his present did not arrive on time," she explained.

13 Safety Islands Hit in Cambridge

The year 1929 took one last crack at the set of safety islands recently installed on Mass. ave., Cambridge, before it gave way to 1930.

The beacon on the island opposite Yorktown st. was knocked flat on New Years Eve by an automobile operated by Albert E. DeCost, Tannery st., Cambridge, according to a report at police headquarters. The driver was taken to the Cambridge City Hospital where he was treated for cuts on his face and head. His car was badly damaged. It was the 13th island hit.

Four Leagues in High School Alumni Association

SCHOOL GRAD TEAM IDEA MAKES HIT

A MASSACHUSETTS high school alumni association with four distinct leagues operating, now is being formed. Originally the plan was to have only a North Shore league, but the idea has proven so popular that next fall a great number of former high school grid stars will be in action on all sides of Greater Boston.

The four leagues are the North Shore, South Shore, Mystic Valley, and Suburban. Arthur McCarthy, former Revere high athlete, and originator of the plan, has interested thousands in his association.

The North Shore League is composed of Chelsea, East Boston, Swampscott, Winthrop, Peabody, Salem, Lynn English, Lynn Classical, Revere and Marblehead.

Members of the South Shore division are, tentatively, Brockton, Walpole, Norwood, Weymouth, Quincy, Abington, Taunton, Dedham, and two others, to be named at an early date.

Suburban League teams are Malden, Medford, Cambridge Latin, Rindge Tech, Everett, Watertown, Brookline, Waltham and Newton.

Arlington, Winchester, Lexington, Stoneham, Woburn, Reading, Concord, Melrose and Belmont form the Mystic Valley League.

REGULAR SCHEDULE

The rules call for football teams to be placed on the field from a number of cities, playing in the league, and battling through a regular schedule.

Only former members of high school teams of the cities in the league are to be on the teams. This assures the fans that a fine brand of football will be presented them. Boys who have played high school football have a good idea of the great fall pastime.

It is the intention of the association to reorganize the alumni groups of the cities in the four leagues, then allow them to run things to their own satisfaction. It is not a commercial proposition, for members of the association are to be taxed very lightly, and the money thus collected will be spent for officials and expenses of arranging for playing fields, police protection, and so forth.

NEW MEMBERS

Alumni groups of each city will sponsor their own membership drives and outfit their own teams. The response to the games should be such that the cities will be able to proceed with the plan and form basketball teams and groups for other sports.

Each alumni group will conduct the games in its own city. After expenses of a game have been paid the two teams split the money evenly and the profits go into the treasuries of the two clubs.

The real purpose of the movement is to advance the cause of amateur athletics by giving the sports fans of the different cities a chance to witness home town lads, properly organized, playing through a regular schedule, organized before the start of the season by the association.

While no boy is allowed to play who has not represented one of the high schools of the association, any lad who has made his letter in some league high school, but now lives in another city, may transfer to the team of the city where he makes his residence.

Alumni of the high schools have been notably impressed by the fact that they will run their own teams without interference by the league officials.

What money is made belongs to the teams which play in the association. When the league gets in full swing the fans of the cities are going to have a chance to watch real football, played for all its worth, by boys who are in there for the love of the sport.

Blues Down Reds at the Country Club

The blues defeated the reds in a New Year curling match at the Country Club, 326 points to 64. The match extended throughout the day, the blues leading after the morning matches, 72 to 34.

The team skipped by W. G. Macoven had 15 shots for the greater number in the morning while Browne's team led the field in the afternoon with 12.

Son Beats Father at L Street Bath

Breaking the cold water swimming record and triumphing over his father, the only other participant in the test, Julius Jasenas of South Boston, 13-year-old High School of Commerce swimmer, carried off the James M. Curley cup at L st. in water which registered 36 degrees.

MR. BOSTON

—by— JACK CONWAY

"NEW YEAR greetings should be just as welcome even though delivered one day late," said Mr. Boston today. "So may I wish the readers of this column a happy new year!

"Everybody is glad to roll into a new year. And I understand that roll is the proper word to describe the way quite a few of our fellow-citizens greeted 1930.

"With a new year on our hands, we can forget the mistakes and the errors of the past and get down to new business.

"I look for a big year in sport. Baseball, boxing, hockey, football, golf, tennis, track athletics, polo, horse racing and the other forms of sports should prosper greater than in 1929.

"Millions of new fans have been educated in athletics during the past few years. The ladies as well as the men have gone in for healthy athletic entertainment.

Jack Conway

"I LOOK for great doings in the boxing game during 1930. Jack Sharkey should be able to convince even the managers of rival heavyweights he is the one to take over Gene Tunney's former duties as the head of the heavyweight division.

"The major heavyweight match of the year will bring together Sharkey and Max Schmeling. It is also likely that Sharkey will battle Phil Scott. This last contest will be staged in Boston, if it is arranged.

"I NOTICE that the sport writers continue to throw cold water on the proposed match between Sharkey and Tuffy Griffith at Miami, Fla. It is the opinion of most of the writers that Griffith, who was knocked out by Jimmy Braddock, isn't a fit opponent for Sharkey.

"If the New York Garden is going to make a success of the Miami venture, it will have to match Sharkey with Victorio Campello, Phil Scott or some other heavyweight who has international standing. A Southern city like Miami will not tolerate a match between two Northern boxers.

"JIMMY BROWN informs me that as Gus Sonnenberg is already under contract to meet Dick Shikat in Chicago, provided the latter wins the tournament sponsored by the Illinois Athletic Association, that there is not any chance of such a match coming to Boston. Bowser declares that Shikat has not yet entered the Illinois tournament, which causes Paul to believe he is not quite as confident of his ability as he would like to make the fans believe.

"Brown also mentioned that Paul Bowser had an ironclad contract which gives him full promotion rights on Sonnenberg in Boston. This contract would seem to bar Avery from getting the match.

"THERE has been so much ballyhooing of Sonnenberg and Shikat by Avery and Bowser that I am beginning to believe that the boys are working together for their common interest. I would not be surprised if Sonnenberg and Shikat were signed for one of those Battles of the Century by the time the outdoor season opens.

It is significant that Toots Mondt, who manages Shikat, used to be a regular performer at Bowser's shows when he was a wrestler. I also understand that Bowser and Avery have barnstormed around the country together as the directors of care-free grapplers.

"Here's hoping they don't keep us waiting too long before springing the announcement that Shikat is going to battle Gus."

BRUINS OPEN NEW YEAR WITH WIN

JACK CANNON WINS PRAISE

San Francisco, Jan. 2 (AP)—Western football enthusiasts were singing the praises of Jack Cannon, Notre Dame guard; Glassgow, Iowa halfback, and a host of other Eastern performers today as they recuperated from the effects of seeing an all-star West team trounced, 19 to 7, here yesterday by an all-star East team.

The decisiveness of the triumph left spectators at the contest bewildered. The East scored its first touchdown in the opening quarter on a 25-yard pass, added another in the second and completed its scoring with two field goals by Frosty Peters of Illinois. The West made its lone score in the third quarter when Sloan of Nebraska crashed through for a touchdown after a march down the field.

Another Merrick Hurdling for B. C.

One of Coach Jack Ryder's best track prospects at Boston College is Joe Merrick, sophomore, a brother of the famed Bob Merrick who tied the world's high hurdle record while topping the timbers for the Maroon and Gold in 1924.

Young Merrick is following in the footsteps of his brother. Coach Ryder doesn't expect Joe to reach the same heights that his brother did, but is counting on him to be a better than average hurdler before he graduates.

Joe won many points for his freshman team over the high and low barriers a year ago. He has a fine chance of making a varsity letter this season.

Joe has been working out at the Heights during the Christmas vacation. His brother Bob, home from his New York business for a few days, has been giving him pointers. Bob would have been an Olympic prospect if he had kept up his track work, but he never donned a spike after graduating from B. C.

Walsh Will Remain at Yale

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Jan. 2 (AP)—A brief statement issued today by the Yale Athletic Association over the signature of John M. Cates, director of athletics, said that Adam Walsh would remain as line coach of the Eli football team for another year.

The captain of the Four Horsemen of Notre Dame in 1924 took up his duties last fall under a two-year contract. It was reported that he received a substantial increase in salary.

Walsh was offered a berth as head coach at Georgetown, but decided to complete his contract here.

Tilden Defeats French Court Star

Paris, Jan. 2 (AP)—Bill Tilden defeated Christian Boussus, young French southpaw, in the semi-finals of the French international covered court tennis championships today by scores of 6—3, 6—2, 8—6. He will meet his old rival, Jean Borotra, the bounding Basque, in the final on Saturday.

Three Schools in Non-Scouting Agreement

New London, Ct., Jan 2 (AP)—The Coast Guard Academy, newly elected member of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, has entered into a non-scouting football agreement with the Connecticut Aggie and Rhode Island State, Lieut. L. H. Baker, graduate manager of athletics, announced today.

The agreement will be in force when the coast guard cadets meet Aggies and Rhode Island on the gridiron next fall.

CRIMSON SEXTET BATTLES POWERFUL TORONTO TEAM IN GARDEN TONIGHT

INTERNATIONAL collegiate hockey honors are at stake tonight at the Boston Garden when Harvard varsity plays the great Toronto varsity team, recent 11 to 3 winner over Dartmouth, and also a 3 to 2 victor over the Crimson in New York last Saturday night.

Games between Harvard and Toronto always have been red letter events in Boston hockey and the battle this season promises more rich action and color than any clash they have had in years.

The Harvard players have had the experience of one game with the Canadian champions and should be better prepared tonight.

TORONTO CLEVER

To overcome Toronto will require some stout and smart hockey. No team can afford to be careless against this bunch of great players. The Toronto team boasts a starting line that has played together for three seasons. This gives a team a marked advantage. This Toronto line comprises Jimmy McMullen, Bill Stewart and Mal Harley, three mighty fine hockey players, a trio that measures up to many of Toronto's great lines of the past.

Harvard is bound to have a lot of trouble with Red Whitehead, the fiery defense player, who is like a streak down the ice and who possesses one of the hardest shots in hockey.

Toronto is well fortified with forward line replacements and the outer defense stands up well. The team is very ordinary in goal with Doc Amos and Duke Le Barr operating. Coach Red Porter is experimenting in the nets.

STUBBS CONFIDENT

Coach Joe Stubbs of Harvard believes his men will match Toronto in speed just as they did in the New York game. If the Canadians can stand off Harvard's many fresh replacements it will be quite an achievement. The Crimson has a flock of men to shoot in.

While Harvard's team is by no means the best club that has come from across the Charles, the sextet has the makings of a better than average outfit.

Harvard has several speed merchants on the team, notably Elliot Putnam, leader of the six; Junie Stubbs, sophomore wingman, and Johnny Garrison. Garrison is playing right defense for Harvard tonight.

Harvard's defense pair, most likely to start in front of the offerings are Johnny Garrison and Sum Batchelder. Batchelder is Harvard's bad boy. He is a fast skater and checks hard and his checking against Varsity in New York cost him many minutes in the pen.

Tigers Clash With Reds at Boston Garden on Saturday

EVENING AMERICAN SPORTS

EX-TIGER TO START FOR RED SIX

LUDGER DESMARAIS, big Sudbury lumberjack, who played defense for the Boston Tigers last season, will be in the starting lineup of the Providence Reds when they meet the Tigers in the Garden Saturday night.

He recently was purchased from Toronto Millionaires, to whom the Tigers sold him at the start of the season.

Manager Sprague Cleghorn of the Reds believes that Ludger has great defensive potentialities.

He made the deal for his services last week. Immediately after Gordon Fraser, borrowed defense man, was traded to the Pittsburgh Pirates by Les Canadiens.

The game of Saturday will be the last appearance of the Reds on Boston ice until March 20, which is the last home date of the season for the Tigers. The Boston team must win the game to stay in the Canadian-American running.

The slump of the last two weeks has enabled the Philadelphia Arrows and the Springfield Indians to creep up on the Boston entry.

Manager Eddie Powers still has faith in big Tigers. The morale of the team is good despite its recent reverses.

The players are in good condition aside from bumps and bruises, and will resume practice this morning at the Garden.

TUFTS COURT SQUAD WORKS

Although classes at Tufts do not officially start until next Monday, the wrestling and basketball squads start work this afternoon in preparation for their opening meets.

Lew Manly will meet a picked squad of hoopmen, who will begin a strenuous week's work before the opening games with Trinity and Conn. Aggies on January 10 and 11.

The openers will be away from home, and the Jumbos will have to be at their best to come out on top. Those reporting are Capt. Horton, Art Cochran, Red Rutters, Dick Warren, Jack Finn, Duke Miller, Ed Robison, Bob Beatty, Charley Haber and Doc Fitch

Sam Ruggeri will have his matmen getting in condition for the trials, which will be held next week to determine the starting team which will open against Harvard, January 15, at Tufts.

Fifteen men are reporting today. Those reporting are Stella, Giles, Wilkinson, Seaver, Minasian, Hastings, Littleton, Pudnick, Daniels, Edwards, Govoni, Mill, Peck, Gallivan and Johnson

Brignolia K. O's Tony Mandell

Cudahy, Wis., Jan. 2—Larry Brignolia, Boston welterweight, socked out Tony Mandell, of Chicago, young nephew of lightweight champion, Sammy Mandel, in the third round of a scheduled 10-round bout here.

The Boston fighter made a big hit with the fans and was given an ovation when he left the ring.

CHEVROLET

Coming

A Sensational Announcement by CHEVROLET SATURDAY Jan. 4TH

McMILLEN IS TO MEET LONDOS

One of the greatest all-star wrestling cards ever presented to Boston fans will be offered at the Mechanics Building on Jan. 8, according to an announcement made by Promoter Billy Avery.

The feature attraction will bring together Jimmy McMillan, the former University of Illinois all-American gridiron star, and Jim Londos, the Greek champion. This bout stands out as one of the best of the local indoor season.

The semi-final will find those two great matmen, Hans Steinke and George Calza, pitted against each other. It will be the most severe task either has encountered in many months. Both men are outstanding contenders for the world's crown and the match appears even more important than the main go.

Future of Pro Hockey in Serious Danger

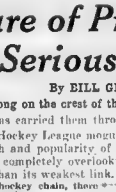
By BILL GRIMES

SAILING along on the crest of the tremendous financial wave, which has carried them through three successful seasons, the National Hockey League moguls are so elated over the widespread growth and popularity of the "fastest game on earth" that they are completely overlooking the fact that a "chain is no stronger than its weakest link."

And, in the hockey chain, there are many weak links.

Unless the rules, officiating, roaming players, reserve lists and playoffs are ironed out to the satisfaction of all, hockey is riding to a fall.

Two months before the start of this season the board of governors voted for a drastic revision of the rules. They wanted more scoring or at least, the fans did. The governors allowed themselves to be stampeded into throwing the game wide open, with disastrous results. Immediately, the value of goals was almost completely nullified. Hockey became lacrosse on skates. The fans all over the circuit began to protest. And, one month after the opening of the season, an emergency meeting of the board of governors was called and the rules somewhat modified. But, the protests are still very much in evidence.



Bill Grimes

Had such maltreatment been applied to any other game, it would have killed the goose that laid the golden egg. And even hockey stand the reactions of many more such acts.

An idea of how lightly the importance of the rules is held by a majority of the governors was brought out when they agreed to Connie Smythe's suggestion that if they were going to allow forward passing in the attacking zone they should throw the game wide open and let players enter that territory before the puck carrier.

If the only excuse for changing the rules was to meet the demand for more goals, it was not necessary to make any revisions other than the widening of nets and the reducing of the width of the goalie's pads.

Until such a time as the making of the rules is taken out of the hands of the board of governors, hockey will be in danger of collapse. With all due respect to the financial ability of this board, there are only two members capable of qualifying as hockey authorities.

Leo Dandurand of Les Canadiens and Dave Gill of Ottawa have made a thorough study of the game for many years. Dandurand is particularly well posted in every department of hockey.

And, incidentally, he strenuously opposed the change put into effect last September, and was also the leader of the insurrection to modify the rules before the meeting in Chicago. Gill knows his hockey, and is a sound thinker.

ALTHOUGH the work of the officials is reflected by the soundness of the rules, they are never going to gain favor with the players and fans until they are taken out of their present hit or miss rut. The fault is not with the referees entirely, and their shortcomings should be charged up against their superiors.

If the league referees expected to meet with success, the first step to be taken, after the rules had been revised last fall, should have been to call a meeting of all N. H. L. officials and insert some uniformity in their rulings. But, there was no meeting. The referees were given a rule book and told to go out and call them accordingly.

No wonder they have been in hot water all season. Naturally every referee has his own interpretation of the rules. The coaches have theirs and have taught plays according to the way they understand the rules.

At present some referees are ruling that a player can enter the attacking zone before the puck carrier if he is not in the play. Others stop the play the moment a player crosses the line before the puck.

Monthly meetings of officials would bring up points which would straighten out most of the trouble, would develop a recognized code for all officials, through approved rulings, and materially benefit the game.

Loaning of players by one National Hockey League club to another should be abolished. Sooner or later, this practice will start rumors of syndicate hockey, which would be a sure-fire ruination of the game.

A limit should be placed on the number of players allowed on the reserve list of any one club. Also, there is no rhyme or reason for Les Canadiens being allotted the first call on the service of every French-Canadian in the Province of Quebec, who intends to play professional hockey. The Maple Leafs of Toronto have almost 200 players on their reserve list.

Every time they hear of a player of any note, they wire Pres. Calder and have this player added to their army of reserves. Moreover, clubs should have at least a tentative agreement with amateurs before it is permissable to put them on reserve lists.

Perhaps, in Canada, where it is an old custom, the fans look with favor on the playoffs for Stanley Cup competition, but here in the States the fans do not cotton to the present system of deciding the world's championship.

In baseball the winners only are eligible for the world's series and the followers of hockey here cannot understand why a club which has finished in third place in its respective division has almost an equal chance of winning the highest honors in hockey as the teams which lead the divisions.

Professional hockey is in its heyday but now is the time for the moguls to start building for the future, for with the vast amount of reconstructing necessary to insure the future of the game, they should stop marking time and get into motion.

TERRIER FIVE SHAKENUP

Coach Win Karlson of the Boston University basketball team will send his varsity hoopsters through their first workout in three weeks, today. The Terriers meet Worcester Tech, January 8, in the first game of the new year, and Karlson will have plenty to do until that time in getting the quintet in shape again.

A few changes are expected in the Terrier lineup and with two or three regulars about to be supplanted by subs, there will be some spirited competition on the squad for the next week to settle the berths in doubt.

B. U. dropped its first two games to Harvard and Brown and although these opponents rank near the top of college quintets, the showing of the Terriers in these two contests was disappointing and a couple of new faces in the first team may bring about the desired result.

Bernie Nims and Bob Berry, right forward and left guard, respectively, are the only men on the team playing first class basketball at the present time and are the only men who have shown any scoring ability.

The other positions, particularly center, are now wide open and will be awarded to the men who show the greatest promise within the next few days. It was possible that the regulars who have held down these berths thus far may take a new lease of life and win their old jobs back again.

Santo Marino, left forward; Ken Young, center, and Archie Steam, right guard, are the men who will be displaced, temporarily at least.

Marino is one of the most promising players on the team and was a star a year ago but thus far this season has failed to gain his former stride. A strenuous football season may be the cause of Marino's slump but the recent vacation and a brief respite from the court game may be just the tonic Marino needed and he may begin to show something before the next game.

Passing the Puck

CONGRATULATIONS to the Bruins for equalling the National Hockey League record for consecutive victories. By defeating the New York Americans last night at the Garden, the Bruins ran their unbroken string of wins to eleven.

Harry Oliver and Dutch Gainor were the scoring aces of the Bruins, each caging two goals. The 3d one was made by Perk Galbraith in the second period. Although they failed to break through with a score, Marty Barry, Dit Clapper and Cooney Weiland each picked up an assist.

Referees will never register with either the fans or the players until they blow their whistles as though they meant it.

Before he attempts to check Dit Clapper again, Bullet Joe Simpson will take a "lookee" to be sure it is not the big boy from Hastings is trying to bump out of a play. Joe took a shot at Dit and went so the ice as though he had received instead of tendered the body check.

Babbit McVeigh was off side about half the night and his trespassing stopped the game on numerous occasions.

Due to the failure of Mickie McKay's lumbago to respond to treatment, the Bruins will probably recall Art Chapman from the Rhode Island Reds.

The capacity crowd was delighted to see Harry Oliver connect with a couple of fine goals. "Sam" is very quiet and unassuming, but he is one of the most popular of all the Bruins.

Until such a time as the Bruins send in a spare goalie to guard their nets, the fans will never fully appreciate the wonderful ability of Tiny Thompson. The Calgary boy is so far out in front of all the other N. H. L. goal minders that it is an injustice to mention any of the others in the same breath with his name.

Mrs. Arthur H. Ross arrived at the Garden just before the start of the game accompanied by an army of youngsters, who would not even stop while she welcomed some of Arts Boston friends. The kids believe in New Year's greeting, but not to the extent of missing any part of the hockey game.

Harry Lee, of C. F. R. transportation fame, who is the goal judge back of the west net, became so excited when Harry Oliver dashed in and took a pass from Eddie Shore in the second period that he flashed the red light. "Sam" must have felt sorry for Harry for he came right back and scored on the next play.

Bill Holmes was prone on the ice as much as he was on his skates.

Bill Carson came through with a neat and very opportune body check when he bumped Johnny Sheppard away from the puck in the first period. Sheppard had the puck with no one to beat but Tiny and it looked serious for the Bruins but Carson raced in and Sheppard bowed out.

Perk Galbraith missed being seriously injured when he crashed his head against the cross bar of the goal after shooting the first goal. Perk had taken a pass close up in front of Benny Grant and after pushing the rubber by the American goalie, followed the disc and received a bad bump.

YOUNG RING STARS SCRAP ON MONDAY

CHARLIE KELLY of Newton, one of the most popular of the amateur welterweights, is expected to be one of the stars in the big New England Golden Glove Tourney to be staged in Mechanics Building by St. Joseph's T. A. S. next Monday night.

Kelly has swept through the most formidable opposition this year, scoring such a series of victories that he stands out as perhaps the best amateur welterweight since Al Mello was mowing them down.

Opposed to him, in one of the all-star classes of the show, will be Fred Rich of Wakefield, Chris DeRosa of East Boston, and Vernon Merlin of Roslindale.

Merlin, champion welterweight of the Yankee Division last year and this year, is rated as the leading rival of Kelly.

The army man is a terrific puncher, and he qualified for the tourney with a series of knockouts. The thrill of the knockout is what attracts the crowds, and with such punchers as Merlin, Kelly, Rich, and DeRosa lined up in the same division, some knockouts are bound to happen.

In the 135 pounds class are Dean Cross of Milford, Victor Lotti of Marlboro, Joe Silva of Taunton, and Vito Albano of Everett.

The widespread interest in the tournament is reflected in the fact that the qualifying lightweights come from Milford, Marlboro, Taunton and Everett.

Albano is the hope of Greater Boston in the lightweight division, but he will not be favored to win, while Cross, Lotti, and Silva are flinging their fists.

The tournament is attracting the greatest attention of any Golden Glove tourney ever held in New England, and it is a certainty that Mechanics Building will be packed to the doors. The advance sale is the largest in history of the club.

The show will start promptly at eight o'clock, and with 24 bouts scheduled, it should be concluded shortly before 1 o'clock.

Jacobs New Junior Tennis Champion

New York, Jan. 2 (INS)—William Jacobs of Baltimore City College today won the new holder of the national junior indoor tennis title as a result of his five-set victory over John Richardson of Dartmouth in the final round at the seventh regiment armory here yesterday.

Marcus Hecht of New York, outclassed Bernard Friedman of Philadelphia to take the boys' title.

The team of Sandy Davenport and Richard Downing won the national junior indoor doubles in a sharp four-set engagement with Donald Frame of Harvard and Ted Frederick Roll of Mercersburg Academy.

Frank Parker of Milwaukee, paired with Giles Verstraten of New York, whipped Friedman and Hecht for the boys' doubles crown.

Giroux on Top

Art Giroux of Montreal outboxed Henry Schwartz of Baltimore, at Salem, in the main bout of 10 rounds at the North st. rink under the direction of the Salem Arena A. A.

Harry Brown of Peabody won a decision over Scoops Rouher of Salem in the semifinal

PITTS SWAMPED BY U. S. C. TEAM

Pasadena, Cal., Jan. 2—A valiant but effective Pitt eleven fell before the attack of the Trojans of U. of Southern California here in the tourney of roses clash on New Year's Day, 47 to 14.

The Native Sons swamped the Panthers throughout the game, although in the last half the Pitt eleven tallied twice to save the game from being an utter rout.

Pitt was superior to the home eleven in rushing the ball for the invaders made 200 yards from scrimmage, while the Trojans were able to gain but 165 yards through the Pitt front wall.

All-minded Trojans gained their big advantage in the passing department. Pitt gained 85 yards through the air during the game. The Trojans' heaves eclipsed that figure, for the warriors of Southern California advanced just 285 yards by means of eight successful passes.

A blazing gun hurt the Pitt team considerably. The eleven lacked its natural fire and pep. It is remarkable that the Pitt warriors were able to make their only scores late in the game, when it might have been expected that the team would be weakened too much to advance the ball.

Mays Wins

Worcester, Jan. 2—Bobby Mays, New Bedford, defeated Harry Dean, Worcester, in a close fight here, the second victory for Mays over the former Olympia boxer.

Mack Rates Sharkey Best Heavyweight

(By Associated Press)

LARGE arenas with their heavy overhead expenses and the exorbitant demands of outstanding boxers caused the boxing sport to slump alarmingly during the past year, according to the annual survey of Eddie Mack, Boston Garden boxing promoter.

Mack also aimed a blow at fouling fighters, whom he termed the most harmful element in the ring game, and suggested that the State boxing commissions punish them with a year's suspension and turn their purses over to charity.

The Boston matchmaker named Jack Sharkey as the outstanding heavyweight and predicted that he would become the champion before the end of 1930. Max Schmeling was ranked second and Young Stribling third.

MALONEY 8TH ON LIST.

The other outstanding performers in the heavyweight division were graded as follows: Phil Scott, fourth; Jimmy Maloney, fifth; Jo nie Schaaf, sixth; Tuffy Griffiths seventh; Johnny Risko, eighth; Otto Von Porat, ninth, and Micky Gallagher, tenth Mack's first light heavyweight choice was Maxie Rosenbloom with Armand Emanuel, Leo Lomski, Jimmy Slattery, Arthur Fiyan Jimmy Braddock, Charley Belanger, Larry Johnson, Neil Clisby and Tom Kirby following in that order.

Mickey Walker the lightheiter was given the top rank in the middleweight division and Ace Hudkins was selected as the outstanding contender. Mack's other selections in this division were Dave Shade, Rene Devos, Harry Smith, Jack McVey, Gorilla Jones, Harry Ebbetts, K O Phil Kaplan and George Courtney.

In the welterweight ranks, Mack named Champion Jackie Fields as the outstanding performer and Jimmy McLarnin as his most dangerous rival. The others who drew Mack's honorable mention were Al Mello, Johnny Indrisano, Jack Thompson, Tommy Freeman Young Corbett, Vince Dundee and Mushy Callahan.

CHOCOLATE NEAR TITLE

Champion Sammy Mandell was rated at the top of the lightweight class with Tony Canzoneri as a close second. Mack also thought highly of the records established by Andy Callahan, Jack Berg, Kid Chocolate, Billy Petrolle, Al Tut, Santiago Zorilla, Jake Zeramby and Ray Miller.

The Boston promoter said that kid Chocolate, hard punching Cuban, was the best of the featherweight flock and predicted that he would become the titlist as soon as he could lure Chris Battalino, present champion, into the ring. The others on Mack's list were Andy Martin, Earl Mastro, Fidel Labarba, Andre Routis, Joe Sangra, Pete Nebo, Sammy Fuller and Eddie Purley.

The bantamweight division was described as a "toss up." Mack believe unable to decide whether Al Brown the outstanding American contender or Teddy Baldock the European champion, rated him first selection. Kid Francis was described as the third best bantam in the class, topping Young Nelson, Tommy Paul, Johnny Dutto, Joe Sangiro, Vidal Gregorio, Newsboy Brown and Archie Bell.

GENERO BEST FLYWEIGHT.

Mack ranked Stanislas Genero as the leading flyweight with Izzy Schwartz, second, Eugene Hart third, Emil Fladner fourth, Frenchy Belanger, fifth, Lazy Hill, sixth; Newsboy Brown seventh, Midget Wolgast eighth, Black Bill ninth and Willie Lamont, 10th

Mack gave the junior welterweight honors to Jimmy McLarnin with Mushy Callahan second and his leading junior lightweight was Al Singer, with Hemphyll Finnegan as his outstanding rival

FROSH LINEUP PUZZLES M'COY

While Coach Al McCoy of Northeastern is preparing his varsity basketball team for the third game of the season with Newport Naval Training Station Saturday, he is also trying to decide on the lineup of his freshman team for the opener the same day with Salem Normal

Both contests will be played at the Boston Y. M. C. A., freshmen going into action at 1 p. m. and varsity at 3 p. m.

The varsity lineup is settled. It will have the veterans Herb Pelfany and Bill Sotanicki at forward and Ray Bjornlie at center, Red Hassel and Gi. MacDonald at guard. Fifteen othe, hu-kies, at, but four of whom have already seen service this year will be ready for action

The Red and Black rosters opened on by their 41-24 victory over Clark in their last start are confident of rolling up a good score against the sailors. As Holy Cross and Mass Aggies will be met next week McCoy is working his squad hard for the first game after the holiday lay-off!

Thirty-two freshmen have been practicing since early last fall, and there are so many sharpshooters on the squad McCoy is puzzled about a lineup. Nils Gustafson, rangy center, is certain to start He is almost varsity calibre now

In the new mid-year freshman group of nearly 400 that started school Monday 55 are candidates for the yearling quintet. There are more big men on the new squad than on the old.

Harold Linane, regular center two years at Natick high, stands six feet 4½ inches. Harvey Hartwell, letter man four years at Waterbury high, Ct., six feet one inch, plays both guard and center. William Higgins, who starred for four years at Orleans high, is five feet, 11½ inches tall. Edwin Welker, five feet, 11 inches, made three basketball letters at Wilson high, N. Y.

No Bouts for Friedman Before Schaaf Fight

NO less than a half-dozen legitimate offers ranging from $2000 to $7500 have been turned down by Al Friedman, Roslindale heavyweight, since his spectacular knockout victory over Big Boy Rawson here.

According to Al Lippe, his manager, he will accept none of these offers until after his meeting with Ernie Schaaf, thumping Hub sailor at the Boston Garden, Friday night, Jan. 10.

All the original offers received by Friedman were received at the Boston Garden, and they attracted keen interest.

WANT AL IN CHI.

Nate Lewis, Chicago promoter, offered Friedman $7500 for a meeting with Tommy Loughran, Von Porat or Paulino for late in January yet this offer, like the rest was turned down. Gabes Kauffman of Kansas City offered $5000 for Friedman to meet Loughran in a no decision contest.

Tom Packo, St. Louis promoter, offers Friedman $2000 to meet Joe Packo, Jan 24, while Tom Andrews, Chicago, offers $3000 for Friedman to meet Leo Pantaleo, a local boy

Joe Lewis of Cleveland wants Friedman with Johnny Risko, while Barnie Boyle, Omaha, has written an offer for the Roslindale Hebrew to take on Reserve Wright Major Green, Indianapolis promoter, has offered $2500 for Friedman to meet Chuck Wiggins.

GAMBLE FUTURE

Yet Lippe and Friedman turned down every offer. They are gambling their entire futic future on Friedman's ability to beat Schaaf here and they point out that Friedman will be worth bigger money then. They refuse to clinch matches for the present at terms that might be doubled after a win over Schaaf.

All these offers are legitimate and it is doubtful if ever before a local ring star was stormed w. such offers, only to turn them all down. This simply indicates Friedman's great confidence in his ability to win over Schaaf.

Al Spohrer, Brown catcher, who makes his ring bow on the same card, when he clashes with Arthur "The Great" Shires, White Sox first baseman, is due to arrive in the Hub tonight. Spohrer is planning to do all his training at Schaaf's Wrentham camp

With Hub fans favoring Friedman to win over Schaaf in this bout, one of the greatest crowds of the season is expected

GOOD GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON
Golf's Greatest Teacher

With the average 3 par hole the difference, playing the new ball will not be noticeable at all because of the lessened distance in the ball, since for anything like par yardage or less the difference in flight would be only a scattered few feet. However on the shorter of the 3 par holes of around 150 yards the lessened problem can be stiffened some by being made smaller. The ball will stop so well that premium will be put on accuracy of pitching, which is as it should be. Therefore, the club will again gain something in ground space, while at the same time making the play more interesting for the amateur. Heretofore, course design has tended toward more and more yardage until it has got on the average to the shooter hardly expects to make any of the holes in par except the 3 pars and the ball is only usually he gets himself as on them. Henceforth with the new ball the hole lengths will be toward shorter holes and emphasized hazards

B. C. ATHLETIC HEAD AT N. Y. CONFERENCE

BOSTON COLLEGE is represented by the Rev. Fr. Roddy, director of athletics at the Heights, at the conference of college and university presidents in New York this week at which the Carnegie Foundation bulletin is the main topic.

The university authorities are in favor of co-operating with the Carnegie report. Boston College's stand on the matter was mailed to the conference officials at the close of the football season and it has not been made known.

In the Carnegie report Boston Colleges was on the black list. The Eagles were charged with paying athletes, and having athletes sent to the Heights via the parish priests

It has been rumored that Boston College is going to cut down on the number of tuitions given out in football players this year which indicates that Boston College is willing to help produce some results as the fruit of the Carnegie research labor

PARAMOUNT SELECTS MANAGER TO INSURE CLARA BOW'S POPULARITY

WILL STUDY VIEWPOINT OF PUBLIC

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor Universal Service

(Copyright, 1930, by Universal Service.)

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 2—Paramount is going to do everything this coming year to keep Clara Bow from slipping as a box office favorite. The first move in this direction to start the year off right is the signing of John McCormack to manage the red-headed Bow and to find out what the dear public craves in the way of Bow entertainment.

McCormick who is the husband of Colleen Moore, is credited with a large part of Colleen's tremendous popularity. His judgment and his management is said to have put her in the place of the biggest box-office draw in the country. We assume with John going to Paramount, that Clara's flow would would undoubtedly follow, but so far there has only been a discussion. Several companies are seeking Colleen and she is very wisely taking her time to make up her mind.

THE name Allison Skipworth always brings back to me the memory of the gorgeous painting of her which hangs in Daniel Frohman's dining room. Miss Skipworth was young and lovely when it was painted. Mr. Frohman saw her walking along the street in London and rushed after her to engage her for a part in a play which he and his brother, Charles Frohman were to produce in New York. She came to New York and was a great success on the stage. Now you are asking what has that to do with the picture of Miss Skipworth. Miss Skipworth is being brought out here from New York to play the part in "The Divorcee" that Mrs. Leslie Carter had on the stage. Ernest Torrence and Lewis Stone have the other two leading roles.

ONE of the happenings of interest in Hollywood is the arrival of Grant Mitchell, who made a name for himself on the stage in "The Tailor-Made Man," "It Pays to Advertise," "Nothing but the Truth" and "The Whole Town's Talking." The movies, of course, bring him here, but up to this time there have been no contracts signed. This, apparently, isn't worrying Mr. Mitchell for he has brought his whole family out here and is on a house hunting. You cannot blame anyone for taking a chance and coming to Hollywood these days for all the world and his wife are here and the climate continues to intrigue the Easterner who cannot get used to sitting outdoors in January.

JUBILEE OVER RKO CIRCUIT

PRES. HIRAM S. BROWN and Joseph Plunkett, vice-president and general manager of theaters of the RKO Circuit, which includes Keith's and the Keith-Albee in Boston have designated the first month of the New Year as a "January Good Times Jubilee," the main objective being to enlist the entire organization of the major vaudeville and picture chain.—its theaters from coast to coast, its artists and its public everywhere in the promotion of and co-operation with, President Brown's new dominion impulse of renewed prosperity, business expansion, justified optimism.

Hiram S. Brown

The New Year also happens to mark the first anniversary of the completion of the organization and nationwide adjustment of the Radio-Keith-Orpheum

During January in the hundreds of theaters in the far-flung chain of RKO, there will be renewed activity and novelty in both the stage and screen entertainments. The vast and but recently acquired amusement resources which science has brought to the theater will loom in full glory. New acts and artists, the newest and best of motion and sound pictures, all of the perfected services, devices and modern miracles of the radio, the camera, color photography, the talking machine, are now for the first time at the disposal of the entire public of RKO amusements.

CLIVE PLAYER IS ATHLETIC

IF you notice a slim, blonde young woman in running togs doing a brisk mile along the Esplanade on one of these cold, winter mornings, the chances are it will be Miss Rhona Fenely Keeping fit for the trying career of a dramatic artist is Miss Fenely's chief job in life, and running is her favorite exercise. Miss Fenely, hailing from the beautiful English countryside about Lincolnshire, has recently joined ranks with the Copley group, playing her first part as a member of R. E. Clive's organization in the Middle Watch." Her dramatic career has been a brilliant one, from its very beginning, when on her graduation day at the Royal Academy of Dramatic Arts in London, she received the academy's highest award for her student work.

Miss Fenely's enthusiasm for athletics is all in the line of her duty to her art. She's an expert swimmer, too, but admits that she reserves that sport for warm summer days. In the winter, it's running and horseback riding. She finds Boston delightfully reminiscent of English cities.

"CHOCOLATES" BOSS KNOWS HIS STUFF

OF the many interesting colored persons who came to Boston with "Hot Chocolates" now tenanting the Tremont, less has been said about the man who staged the show than any one else. His name is Leonard Harper, which, perhaps doesn't mean a thing to Boston but a name that has magic significance in the night club life of Harlem.

Harper just past 30, has devoted the last 10 years to directing club revues and midnight revels in the colored section of Gotham. His most prominent work, however, is the staging for the last six years of the floor attraction at Connie's Inn a smart rendezvous where the show is colored and the clientele white.

When Connie and his brother, George, decided to take their floor show to Broadway, Harper was engaged to direct the proceedings. He did the right thing when he refused to make many changes in what had been the most successful floor revue ever presented at Connie's Inn. In short, the uptown show was moved virtually intact to the Hudson Theater.

That it became an immediate success is now history. This was due, in the main, to Harper's insistence that no vulgar songs be introduced.

"They'll stand for smut from white actors, but not from black," he said. And he proved to be right. The critics were aware of this, and in many cases gave him full credit for standing pat on a "clean show."

He was born in New York and knows the negro in all his moods, knowing when to call rehearsals and when not to. Knowing the negro to be naturally lazy, he instituted the plan of paying midweek salaries on days when he wanted a rehearsal. "Then I know they'll all show up," he is reported as saying.

The night "Hot Chocolates" opened at the Tremont he had rehearsed his company up until 7 o'clock. He put every member of the company on edge, and the result is that "Hot Chocolates" started with a bang. The very thing he aimed for.

"You must start a negro with pep or he is lost," he remarked that night.

Earl Derr Biggers Tale Being Filmed by Warners

The Roy Del Ruth goes the distinction of directing the first picture on Warner Brothers 1930 program. He is to direct "The Agony Column," based on the novel by Earl Derr Biggers, former Boston newspaperman. Del Ruth directed "The Gold Diggers of Broadway," "The Terror," "The Oklettenist" and "The Desert Song."

"DUKE" ONCE A STOWAWAY

DUKE MARTIN, who is seen and heard in Tiffany's all-talking production, "The Lost Zeppelin," now at the Park, began his life career as a stowaway on a boat bound for China. Discovered, he was drafted into service on the vessel. He soon became an able seaman and finally a sea captain.

From the ocean his many adventures took him to railroad life. He fired an engine and then was an engineer of the "Casey Jones" type.

His picture career began a little more than two years ago, with a part in "First Degree Murder," with Milton Sills. Then he was with Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton in "Now We're in the Air," "The Flying Romeos," "The Fortune Hunters" and "Across to Singapore."

BRING 'MAGIC' INTO PLAY AT PLYMOUTH

ALMOST as much electrical and mechanical equipment as is usually demanded by a stage magician's show, it is said, is used in the production of "The House of Fear," the mystery farce, playing at the Plymouth, with matinee on Saturday. The action of the play calls for surprises in rapid succession and to accomplish the effects a elaborate outfit of trick machinery is needed. Many of the effects in "The House of Fear" were specially devised by a well known magician, according to the bills.

"The House of Fear" comes direct from the Republic Theater, New York city. All of the furniture and "properties" used in the play are announced to be genuine antiques supplied by Birns Antique Shop. Even the paneling of the room in which the action of the play is staged is real oak instead of painted canvas and all of the features of the room—a massive fireplace and its fittings and heavy swinging doors—are real instead of imitation.

The electrical equipment of the show is also elaborate and its effects are not confined to the stage. Various lighting tricks are used in the auditorium to heighten the effects on the stage.

HARWOODS FOR GENERATIONS ON STAGE

GEOFFREY HARWOOD, appearing in the Theater Guild Acting Company's presentation of the Shaw comedy, "Major Barbara," at the Hollis Street for its final week, is a great, great, great grandson of John Harwood, prompter at the Surrey, the second theater built in London. The year in which his relative served at the Surrey was 1760. At that time there was only one other theater in London, the Colonial. One of the sons of that Harwood married the granddaughter of Benjamin Franklin, a Miss Bache. Harwood's father, John Harwood, also is well known in the American theater, having conducted many stock companies throughout the country. He was associated in the staging of both "Show Boat" and "Rio Rita."

Geoffrey Harwood

Mr. Harwood of the Guild Company, last season played in "The Sign of the Leopard," "When Crummels Played," and "The Money Lender." His wife, Dorothy Humphreys, also is a professional, having appeared in "The Little Show."

The Harwood family can trace back its history in the American theater in 1756.

Because it is so helpful in keeping babies and children healthy and happy, every mother should know about Phillips Milk of Magnesia.

This harmless, almost tasteless preparation is most effective in relieving those symptoms of babies and children generally caused by souring food in the little digestive tract, such as sour-belching, frequent bad breath, feverishness, colic. As a mild laxative, it acts gently, but certainly, to open the little bowels in constipation, colds, children's diseases.

A teaspoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia does the work of half a pint of lime water in neutralizing cow's milk for infant feeding, and preventing hard curds. Its many uses for mother and child are fully explained in the interesting book "Useful Information." It will be sent you, FREE. Write The Phillips Co., 117 Hudson St., New York, N. Y.

In buying, be sure to get genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Doctors have prescribed it over 50 years.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor, Chas. H. Phillips, since 1875.

HAVE COLOR IN CHEEKS

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—are constipated, feeling—you should try Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 20 years of study.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound. Know them by their olive color.

To have a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days, you must get at the cause.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects.

They start the bile and help overcome constipation. Take nightly and note the pleasing results. Millions of boxes sold yearly. 15c, 30c, 60c.

Dr. Bisch's Daily Health Hint

FOR frostbite rub the part with snow or ice water or a piece of ice. Then, as the normal color of the skin returns, warmer and warmer water should gradually be applied. Cold cream or any soothing lotion may be used at the end. Olive oil is good for frostbites and for burns.

SHALL SHE MARRY HIM? IS HE WORTHY OF IT?

Many Girls Worry Over the Most Simple Problems

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

An Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

MANY of my correspondents have really grave questions of love and marriage to decide. Others worry a great deal over problems so simple that the merest breath of fresh air of truth and common - sense would blow them blown. Yet, in all instances, how important it is that the mist of confusion and doubt and unhappiness should melt away in the sunshine and fresh air of wisdom and truth.

Beatrice Fairfax

Let us bring a little common-sense today to the study of Sally's problems.

"Dear Miss Fairfax," Sally writes, "I have been going with a young man for the past two years. He is deadly in love with me and begs me to marry him. Now what worries me is that I don't know whether I really love him. But down deep in my heart I know I could like him. Could it be possible that I don't know what love is?

"I haven't been out with many fellows and never smoke or drink. I play basketball and love dancing and shows; have lots of friends and would go with other young men, but don't care to. Should I marry the first young man or wait a while? Do you think I am encouraging him along? He could go with other girls; I know that as a fact. He is twenty-seven, I am twenty. Please advise me as to what I should do. Thanks a lot and much luck to you!

"Thanks for your good wishes, Sally! Happy New Year to you! Now for your problem:

You are at a good age to marry although if anything you may be a little young. You have found a man who loves you dearly and wishes to marry you.

Deep in your heart, you write, you like him better than you can ever like any other young man. In other words, there is no doubt about your preference for each other. What else is that deep mutual affection between you but love!

Yet you hesitate, and wisely! The time for doubt and hesitation is before, not after marriage.

One or two important points are entirely overlooked in your letter. Do you respect and look up to your friend? Is he upright, faithful and clean minded? Is the background of his family and associations suitable to you? Has he sufficient income and property to marry and found a family? These questions, only you, and possibly members of your family who will advise you, can decide. Your letter speaks of your regard for him, but not of this equally important question of practical suitability. Still, I believe the circumstances will be found favorable to your marriage and happiness, especially since your letter shows you are a sensible girl, so you would doubtless be willing to start housekeeping in a simple way and practice thrift. And I hardly think you would care so much for a young man you did not wholly respect and admire.

Many girls the world over are wondering today whether the time has come to marry the man who loves them best of all and whether that man is, indeed, The Man. Take your time about deciding. Study yourself and him. But do not wait too long, or assure yourself that if this chance passes there will be many more. Do not wait for the 100 per cent perfect and romantic hero who exists only between the pages of story books.

Whatever occupation you may find, and however successful you may be at that occupation, in years to come, you will be less successful than if you were happily married with a home and family of your own. So when a good man who respects your standards and love you asks you to be his wife, and the offer appeals alike to your affection and common sense, why not marry him and be happy?

Barbara Bryce Aided in the Search

Mother of the kidnaped boy, whose eyes were terrible to see, followed her father-in-law everywhere after the extra told of Guy's radio message.

Miss Pat -:- Thrilling Romance of Airways

One sound, one step. I'll fire."

With his eyes on his prisoner and his gun ready, Guy stepped back to the cabin. He stuffed sandwiches, a small thermos of coffee, a flask of brandy and two flashlights in his pockets. He wound a coil of rope about his waist.

God, in that cave since yesterday morning! He was shaking from head to foot. He could have wept. He could have sent terrible, mad sobs flinging through the canyons.

Was Pat yet living? Would he reach her in time? Was it the truth Montgomery told?

He'd promised Laura Dawn to radio the moment he found a clue. Any clue at all, good or bad. But he dreaded keeping his promise. Suppose he came upon Pat's dead body? Suppose he never found her at all?

Laura would have to know. Sometime and somehow the mother must face it. Quickly, tempering the message as much as he dared, Guy sent his words. At least, the report would help other searchers. It would bring planes near when Pat should be taken from her harrowing prison; when she might, perhaps, most bitterly need aid.

Guy got out of the plane and with leveled pistol moved toward his captive. The man's shoulders slumped and his knees gave in exhaustion. He was the picture of dejected collapse.

But the hands raised above his head merely wavered.

With the muzzle of the gun pressed to Ace's back, Guy drew two pistols from the fellow's pockets, dropped them into his own.

He asked coolly: "Has Partridge two guns?"

"He has none. One of these is his."

"Walk in front of me—to the edge here. Point out to me the direction down there of the cave. Where is it?"

Ace shot his arm out toward that rift where the chasm seemed to open into which Pat in her terror had run. "It's there—just under that purple cliff—the sheer one with the white base and the rose-colored ledge above it."

"Is this the shortest trail down?"

"My God, Elliott, you're not going to start down there now?"

"I'm going to take a look at Partridge first—make sure he's helpless—then we're going down."

"You'll dash us both to death. It's after four . . . My God—we were desperate Monday, but we didn't start after her with these shadows possessing the damn place. It will be stone dark in another hour. We can't make it! We were three hours climbing up here."

"With a dead weight, you made it up in three hours . . . With a pistol at your back, you'll make it down in one."

"We'll never reach the floor alive. Wait till dawn. I'll take you there—Elliott, I'm dead. I've not slept for two nights . . . My feet won't go another step. Good God, I'm staggering now! You don't know what that trail is. Parachute jump is safer."

"But I know what 16 hours longer in a blind cave may be for the girl and the kid . . . Suck up, Montgomery. Because you're going—you're leaving me there. Walk in front of me. Start down. Step there till I greet Partridge."

They started down. They heard Slim groaning. They saw within five feet of him, Ace going ahead. Like a shield before Guy.

Then Slim sat up—drew himself to his elbow.

He presented a ghastly picture, half wound as he was in folds of silk, and his face sticking out, greenish in its pallor.

Ace had cut these folds from the parachute. Wherever this easier trail widened, he had dragged his companion upward on the improvised stretcher. A dozen times they had narrowly, miraculously escaped hurtling into the abyss. A dozen times Slim cried out: "Let me drop!"

Now with the pain of his awful climb going like bayonets through his shattered limb, he chewed ferociously at his thin livid mouth, and stared at Guy.

"God ... s you!"

"Throw up your hands Partridge!"

Slim look at Ace. He gave a crazy laugh.

"Ha—Elliott—hands up—like hell my hands go up! You damn sheik—you chimpering skirt chaser! Hands up!

He pulled himself to the edge . . . he leaned down and . . . he sent out a sharp, reverberating curse and pitched himself over.

Late Wednesday afternoon Guy's message reached San Francisco. The evening papers got out extras. The whole story went flaming in the headlines.

Bryce sent two more planes to aid the others. Barbara, with starving eyes, followed him everywhere, to help in the search.

Wednesday night a messenger called at the office of an evening paper! He brought a slip of paper.

This is what the editor read:

"To/f/w this messenger. He will lead you to the ransom Bryce placed in the flume. He will tell you what's happened to Billy Bryce and Patricia Dawn."

The Father's Privilege at Parties

By MRS. BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I have been going with a certain young lady for two years, and love her very much. We have had a talk together and she has promised to become my wife. She is having a party at her home, on my birthday and we want to announce our engagement then. Who should do the announcing—should I, or her parents? I thought it would be my place to announce it. ALLAN.

NO, it is not your place to make this announcement. This is the charming privilege of her family, and her father is the one to make the announcement at the party, respect the feelings of the parents who ... to become so close to them.

They would, I am sure, be very much confused and hurt if you you insisted on making this announcement, for you would be taking from them one of the dearest honors that parents are given. Let them have all the joy of telling their friends that their daughter has pledged her heart.

Yes, you should talk, very seriously, with the girl's father and mother before the engagement is announced. And this is done nowadays, Allan, by men of discrimination and fine feeling, men who know what's what, and who re-

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Will you please advise me whether or not it is proper to wear a hat an an informal dinner given by our superintendent in honor of his anniversary? The dinner is to be given at one of our prominent hotels in the near future at 6.30.

R. E.

IF you are sure that the dinner is to be informal—and it does sound as if it were to be, since the hour is such an early one—I think that you would be fairly safe if you decided to wear a hat.

Listen, World!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

GET this!

Get it straight!

Hang it on your wall—

Paste it on your mind—

You've rounded the corner of another year—

Nor in 1899—

This is 1—9—3—0—

AND YOU ARE ON YOUR WAY!

You're on your way into the future—

There's everything ahead of you—

And everything that lies behind you is past.

PAST...(Get it?) OVER!

FINISHED!

BLOTTO!

Doesn't matter what that past held—

It's all wiped up now—

AND YOU'RE ON YOUR WAY!

Yes, I know—somebody did you dirt.

Well, what of it?

Will snarling and whimpering help you now?

Not on your life it won't . . . it'll just prolong your punishment, just prolong your punishment.

And why should you keep on two-timing yourself just because some other guy started it?

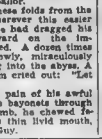
So—cut out the Big Bleat!

Grab hold of whatever wisdom the experience gave you . . . chuck out the rest . . . step on the gas . . . and beat it!

FOR YOU'RE ON YOUR WAY!

Did something wrong last year? Lif yuah feet, chile!

So did every other human on this well known globe.



Elsie Robinson

But that's over . . . and you're sorry aren't you . . . and you're going to do better?

All right then . . . why eat any more worms"

Yelping about your crimes isn't going to buy you anything . . . and it's certainly tough on your audiences.

So cheer up . . . tomorrow's another day!

There's a million stars for good deeds, right ahead—

AND YOU'RE ON YOUR WAY!

Lost someone you loved last year?

That's hard, partner . . . it's mighty difficult to get over THAT.

But it CAN BE DONE . . . and you can and you must put that behind you, too.

You can't linger by a grave . . . Time won't let you.

And what good would it do if time did let you?

You loved one isn't in that grave . . . any more than he was in that body.

He was something that used that body for a temporary camp . . . and his birth was as mysterious as his death.

You didn't know where he was before he came to you . . . and you don't know where he is, now that he has gone.

BUT IT'S CERTAIN HE'S NOT IN THAT GRAVE.

NOR IN YOUR MEMORY.

If he's anywhere, he's ahead!

So strike out . . . as he struck out!

Dry your tears . . . swing into line.

GET ON YOUR WAY!

What's it all about?

Nobody knows . . . and you couldn't use the knowledge if you did know.

YOU'VE GOT ALL YOU CAN HANDLE, STRANGER, IN YOU LIVE TODAY.

So stop asking questions . . . stop looking back. . . .

Time's moving—

The Gang's shoving—

Lif yuah feet, chile!

ON YOUR WAY!

BACK BLOCKS SUPPLIED

In the event you have missed any of the Alphabet Quilt blocks previously published in the Boston American, please send 5 cents for each block missing. Also enclose stamped, addressed envelope. Address Nancy Page, Boston American, P. O. Box 185, Boston, Mass.

THE alphabet quilt was surely coming on. Here the club members were already at the letter P. Nancy might have chosen pansy or puppet, but she was not sure that little children would know what these things were. Where is there a child who has not played with a pail and shovel? Joan counted this one of her favorites, out of all the blocks which her Aunt Nancy had made for her. Possibly this was because the pail was made of a blue figured print. So far there had been little blue in the quilt. That made the pail more interesting and noteworthy.

A solid color might be used for the pail and then an entirely different color for the handle of the pail and of the shovel.

Nancy's continual caution was this—be sure the material is fast color. One would hate to do all that work and then have the block fade and run when washed.

After the pattern square was cut from the day's paper it was held flat against the window pane. Over it was laid the 6½ inch square of white gingham. With a sharp pointed, hard lead pencil the pattern of pail and of letter was drawn onto the cloth.

Then the paper was pasted onto a piece of light weight card or tag board. This was dried under pressure.

While it dried the members outlined the letter P in the corner. Fine chain stitch or outline was used. The embroidery cotton was fast color and of the same shade as used in the connecting bands of color that put the blocks together.

When this paper pattern was dry the handle of pail was cut out first. Then the pail and then the shovel handle. The ball of handle is made with outline stitch a little later and is disregarded in cutting the pattern. The three pieces are laid on fast color cloth and used as pattern to cut the cloth. In cutting, a quarter inch allowance for turning under is made on all sides.

ALPHABET QUILT—BLOCK 16—THE PAIL

The cloth pail itself is cut as if there were no handle cut out of it. Later the handle is appliqued right over the pail.

After the quarter inch allowance is turned under, basted and pressed the pail is laid in place on the pencilled outline of the white block.

It is appliqued in place, using fine, slanting, invisible hemming stitches. At the top a place is left to slip under the raw edge of the shovel handle. This is appliqued in place. The pail handle is appliqued.

Then a fast color embroidery cotton in brown is used to indicate the bail of the handle. Use outline stitch in working this.

Joan began to murmur, "she sells sea shells." When she had been at the sea shore on her summer outing she had industriously hunted shells to fill her pail. This block brought the whole thing back to mind.

Block 17 will appear on this page in the Boston Evening American next Saturday.

Fads and Fashions

Buddha Can Contemplate our involved civilization from the vantage point of a modern hat. A simple hat of black felt is beautified by a Buddha pin of jade with carved carnelian offset by bands of onyx set with tiny diamonds.

An Important Letter is your own initial. A new conceit for the evening wear is the chiffon handkerchief marked with your initial in shimmering rhinestones, which are set on the sheer metal individual setting to avoid tearing delicate fabrics.

Winter Blooming Blossoms are those on evening frocks. A lovely rose of cerise velvet net over satin has a four tiered skirt over which gardenias fall in careless profusion from waist to hem. Another cluster of gardenias is noted at the base of the back decolletage.

A Capelet to a Wool Frock is a new wager. It is just a prophecy that you will see much of this fashion feature next spring. An advance model is of a very fine navy blue woolen in a crepe weave, it is trimmed with white georgette and has an attached little cape bound with blue suede.

Football Is in Fashion in the guise of a little muff and hat set of antelope and broadtail, both brown. The hat is on the order of the football helmets and the muff is shaped exactly like a football with sections of the leather and the fur.

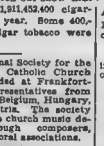
The Truth

ABOUT LAYING UP CHARM

By ELINOR GLYN

IN England now we are having the most strange and dreadful gales and floods and weird thunder storms. A psychic told me that 1930 is supposed to be going to bring cataclysms and disasters of an alarming nature to shake people from their materialism.

However, there is something awful about a great storm. And it is at moments like these that it is not a bad idea to take stock of yourselves, and try mentally to stand on a mountain and even endeavor to see where the road you are on is leading you.



Elinor Glyn

If you are smoking too much, your complexion will not be so clear next year—or your flesh so firm.

If you are drinking too much, it will be even worse. If you are being slack and half-hearted, you will have lost considerable magnetism—and so on.

Revive the actions according to fresh perspective you are just seeing.

Most girls live joyous lives until they are 30, but after that, if they have no brain and no definite aim, they wither very fast, and soon become back numbers.

Try, Gracie and Maud, to gain some permanent charm every month in the year, and please do not lay up for yourselves unnecessary limitations.

Incurring bills is so much more amusing as a pastime than having to pay them!

CARDINAL WILL LEAD PILGRIM VOYAGE

It is announced that Cardinal O'Connell will lead a pilgrimage to the Eucharistic Congress, held at Carthage, North Africa, May 7 to 11.

For the conveyance of the Pilgrims, the S. S. Rochambeau of the French Line has been specially chartered. The vessel will sail from Boston on Wednesday, April 23, and will probably call at Madeira, Gibraltar, and Algiers, where interesting shore excursions will be made. From Algiers she will proceed direct to Tunis, which is the port for Carthage. The Rochambeau will stay in Tunis during the Congress and the ship will serve as a hotel for the pilgrims, the hotel accommodation in Tunis being insufficient for the demand.

After the conclusion of the Congress, the Rochambeau will proceed to Naples. They will enjoy a visit to Rome, during which the Pilgrims, headed by the Cardinal, will attend a special audience with the Pope. After the visit to Rome is concluded the Pilgrims will divide into two bodies, the first traveling via Genoa, the Riviera, Nice, Marseilles, to Lourdes. After the visit to Lourdes, Paris will be included and the Pilgrims will return on the Rochambeau of the French Line from Havre on May 24, reaching America on Sunday, June 1.

The Oberammergau party after leaving Rome, will visit Florence, Venice and The Dolomites on the way to Oberammergau. In Oberammergau the Passion Play will be attended. After that, the journey will be diverted through Switzerland, via Lucerne, Interlaken, Montreux to Paris. Four days will be spent in Paris before sailing for home on S. S. De Grasse of the French line, due to arrive in New York on Saturday, June 14.

The cost of the pilgrimage will be about $850 and upwards. Cook & Son of Tremont st., are transportation managers of the pilgrimage.

Tree Uprooted by Cars

A young tree six inches in diameter was uprooted and another sapling 150 feet distant and almost as big was partially barked and completely stripped of branches when two automobiles collided on Pilgrim boulevard in Quincy.

AUCTION BRIDGE

by WILBUR C. WHITEHEAD

OBLIGATORY FINESSE

An obligatory finesse is one that "may win and cannot lose." If the finesse wins, a trick is gained; if it loses, the trick lost cannot affect the number that must be lost if the finesse is not taken. Declarer's play of the above hand will illustrate this principle of play.

Salient Points of Bidding

Auction: South opens with his shorter stronger Diamond suit in preference to his longer but weaker Heart suit. While South with three side Quick Tricks has sufficient compensation for the original bid of a long suit lacking a top honor, the bid when possible of a suit that contains one or more tricks at top primarily and the calling of the long weak suit secondarily, avoids the deception of partner in respect to the character of partner's holding. This frequently is of vital importance particularly in contract bidding.

West, passing: North takes-out with one No Trump even though holding four cards of the suit originally bid by partner. It should be noted that inasmuch as North's supporting values in Diamonds falls short of the required number to warrant the assumption that game may be made at that suit, he has no option but to improve the character of the bid. East, passing; South with a suit type of hand (5-4-3-1) now calls his Heart suit secondarily, a declaration with which North rests content.

Contract: The bidding at Contract starts the same at at Auction, the only difference being that North takes-out with two No Trumps, over which South calls three Hearts and North bids four, or game.

Salient Points of Play

In the play of this hand, West opens his fourth-best Club, the Four. Declarer plays the Queen from Dummy which East covers with the King and Declarer wins with the Ace. Declarer now pauses to count the two hands. He must lose one Club trick, at least one Diamond and one Heart trick, possibly two.

From this count, he figures that there is grave risk of failure to make his contract unless he can pick up another trick as insurance against losing either two Heart tricks or possibly two Diamonds should the cards breaking five Diamonds he split 4-1 instead of 3-2.

His only chance for an extra trick lies in a possibly winning finesse of the Queen of Spades. Not only does this finesse offer a 50-50 chance of picking up the possibly needed trick for game but it offers no chance of actual loss, because should the finesse lose the losing Club can be discarded on the Ace of Spades in Dummy with the result that no greater number of tricks will be lost should the finesse not be attempted.

He therefore leads to the second trick the Seven of Spades and finesse the Queen which holds. As there is no immediate need of taking the Club discard until his command of Clubs is taken out, he enters his hand with the lead of a Diamond winning with the King and leads the Nine of Hearts, which he lets run, losing to the Queen.

Auction Bidding

Contract Bidding

	1st Rd.	2nd Rd.	3rd Rd.
South	1 ♦	3 ♥	Pass
West	Pass	Pass	Pass
North	2 N T	4 ♥
East	Pass	Pass

From this point on the play is quite simple.

Just how the balance of the play will be conducted depends upon East's lead when in with the Queen of Hearts. Should East lead a Club, Declarer must, of course, win with the Jack in Dummy and take the Club discard at once, then drive out West's Heart Ace and concede one Diamond trick in the end, thus making four odd.

Mr. Whitehead will answer one question at a time concerning your bridge problems. Write to him, care of this paper, enclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope.

TERCENTENARY PROGRAM ON

To the city of Somerville goes the honor of officially opening the tercentenary program of the Massachusetts Bay Colony.

Somerville, where the first flag of the United Colonies was flown from Prospect Hill, observed the anniversary in 20th century style with a radio program, sponsored by the city and sent out over Stations WNAC and WEAN.

Mayor Leon M. Conwell, in the opening address, said:

"All Somerville's soil is rich in historic significance.

"From the day when a white man made his home here for the first time, our people have been loyal and patriotic in war and stalwart in peace. On January 1, 1776, the first flag of the United Colonies was flown from Prospect Hill, when a replica of that flag was unfurled this morning.

At Watertown on Sunday night, Leverett Saltonstall, speaker of the State House of Representatives and a descendant of Sir Richard Saltonstall and Stephen W. Phillips of Boston, a descendant of the Rev. George Phillips, Watertown's first minister, will be speakers at the First Church.

Invite Elks

Middleboro, Jan. 2—Middleboro Lodge of Elks voted at a meeting to invite the Massachusetts State Elks' Association to hold its annual convention at Oak Bluffs this year. The tentative date set is May 31-June 2. Notice of the invitation will be sent to state officers at once.

A book full of dictation, and she must go home; what can she tell her employer? One more girl who hasn't heard of Midol. In misery at least one day of every month, and a tiny tablet now banishes such pain in five to seven minutes! Not a narcotic, mind; nothing that has the slightest effect on the natural process peculiar to women. Midol acts directly on the organs themselves, avoids the painful part—the part that is not natural. You may have tried other things for relief at such a time, but ask about Midol; purse-size metal case is fifty cents.*

*Midol's comfort is not confined to any certain days or age. It relieves at any time of life. Its ease is felt immediately in cases of nervous headache, backache, cramping, hot flashes and all febrile pain peculiar to women.

Zeppelin Will Fly to Brazil and U. S.

Berlin, Jan. 2—The next flight to be made by the Graf Zeppelin, round-the-world dirigible, will definitely link the European continent with South and North America.

This has been learned from Zeppelin officials, who said that in May the Graf Zeppelin will leave its base at Friedrichshafen across the Atlantic to Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, and then fly northward to Lakehurst before returning to Friedrichshafen.

Scarf of This Set Fits Like a Collar

EVEN the careless grace of a colorful scarf comes under the influence of a fashion era that insists on perfect fit and careful workmanship. The scarf of this tri-color set is cut to fit the neck like a collar, with points that cap the shoulders.

The beret matches the scarf in geometric pattern and smart combination of colors.

Gauntlets and Hat of Fur United

NEW uses of fur have reached the height of their possibilities in this unusual combination of fur gauntlets that reach above the elbow, with a hat of matching caracul.

The hands of the gloves are of suede and the crown of the hat is of felt. In black this ensemble is exceptionally smart and it has been suggested that the same outfit could double for winter sports as well as street.

A Bow at One's Feet Means Beaux On Hand

DIMINUTIVE bows to ornament the opera pump, are a mark of smartness and good taste. The opera pump has become the classic footwear of the season and a small bow of metal, suede or patent leather is a dainty accent to its smooth simple lines.

Small jeweled bows are worn at the front or side of the vamp on the formal pump.

Wooden Jewelry at Tea Tables

WOMEN to whom the dark brown wooden sport jewelry has been a welcome variation of the usual gold and silver have been wondering whether this interesting novelty could be made to serve other costumes besides their tweeds and jerseys.

This winter, wooden jewelry comes in from the green and the tennis court, and makes itself ornamental at tea. The more formal wooden jewelry forsakes smooth polished beads and leather decorations to adopt a lovely carved surface and is worn combined with semi-precious stones.

Coats Are Shorter as Skirts Get Longer

THE formal skirt with its increased length adds a new problem to the afternoon mode. What type of wrap will appear to best advantage with the lengthened lines? The three-quarter coat is an excellent solution.

Emphasis is given the hem of the coat which breaks the long line of the silhouette just above the knee in a graceful swirl of fur or drapery.

The two examples illustrated here show two lovely types of the formal afternoon coat, the luxurious fur-trimmed wrap and the velvet coat that wears unusual sleeves and scarf collar of the fabric.

A Newly Divided Skirt Makes its Debut

PANTALETTES return but not lace-frilled and ankle length. Modern pantalettes are known as culottes and the ones shown here effect a flared skirt beneath a long slender tunic.

This frock of black crepe wears demure lace collar and cuffs. Bits of pleating adorn pockets and the hem of the tunic.

A slender belt is worn at the natural waistline. A soft tie finishes the pointed collar.

John Cashman of Haverhill, Dead

Haverhill, Jan. 2—John Cashman, 75, president of the John Cashman Corporation, coal dealers and general contractors here, died at his home here.

He was a brother of Michael Cashman, former mayor of Newburyport, who was recently defeated by 40 votes by Mayor Andrew J. (Boss) Gillis in the Newburyport city election.

Rug Shampooing

like hair shampooing, requires the best attention that can be obtained. It is really an art, for when properly done the colors are brought out in unbelievable brightness, the nap is refreshed to its original splendor, and the life and firmness is restored to the body of your rug. They will lie better, smoother on the floor. I know of no better place to have your rug shampooing done than at the Golden Bell Cleaners, for they do wonderful work! Their special low prices right now are $2.81 for 8.3 x 10.6 Domestic rugs; $3.25 for 9 x 12, and 5 cents a square foot for Orientals. For prompt call and delivery service, call Golden Bell Cleaners, 41 Winter St., Boston, Liberty 9250, and Eastern Ave., Malden, Tel. Malden 2000.

One of the Delights of shopping in the $10 Dress Section of the Spanish Galleries of Chandler & Co, is that you know every dress is within your reach for here dresses of all types are tagged at but one price—$10. You can completely renew your wardrobe with a tailored woolen frock, dainty chiffon, quaint new print, or gorgeous flat crepe in the best silhouette styles. I found a stunning matron trying on a smart black crepe with beaded encrustations, and her lovely daughter dressing herself in a violet colored crepe with net inserts—both were exceptional values at $10. Sizes in the $10 Dress Section range from 14 to 44.

Tell Me, Pretty Gypsy

The Pyramid Company Announces

to all their friends who have been enjoying their wonderful $1 cleansing service that they are now under new management, and that they offer an improved quality of work. The new management of the Pyramid Company gives assurance of prompt, satisfactory service and courtesy, and invite all their old friends to drop in and visit them. It is no convenient to have a cleansing shop located in town, where you can drop in on your lunch hour, or during shopping trips and leave your soiled, mussed frocks, coats, negligees, sweaters and all wearing apparel that you wish to have cleansing. When the Pyramid Company cleanses your things you can be assured that every spot and stain will be removed—their pleats restored by their excellent pressing—and their color revived. The new management assures reliability, and the price for cleansing and pressing is $1. A slight additional charge is made for pleats and fur trimmings. The Pyramid Company is at 26 West St., Room 602. You may send your things by parcel post if it is not convenient for you to get in town. Pyramid promises prompt, personal attention.

The New Year Dances in a gay young thing that lightly tosses aside the conventions, conceits and coiffures of 1929, and brings with it new ideas of its own! Long skirts for a certainty! Long gloves for formality! Long hair for femininity! The smartest little Celebrator I saw at the smartest New Year Party was wearing all these "longies," Anne. A dress that swept her toe tops. Long gloves that purposely avoided meeting her short little puff sleeves, and a bobbing cluster of curls at her neck that gave her the air of a princess! Such an amazing cluster of curls! 'Twas false! But you'd never guess it, for two tiny combs on elastic clasped and fastened it firmly behind her ears, and her own bobbed hair covered the fastening. She explained confidentially to me that it was the new Shur-on hairpiece which Filene's Beauty Balcony is showing especially for evening wear, for with Fashion pointing a derisive finger at everything boyish this year, your wardrobe simply must include a long hairpiece. These Shur-on hairpieces fasten so deftly to the head that they can be dressed in any fashion you wish—crossed in back, rolled into a low puff, or worn as a cluster of curls. They are so light they take up no hat room, and can be matched to any shade hair. They are priced but $4.50. If you wish, you may have a Shur-on hairpiece made of your own hair, and the price will be but $3.50, in Filene's Beauty Balcony, street floor.

Among the Famous Events of History

that have taken place in our patriotic old town, Anne, I really think that Scott Furriers' Annual Markdown Sale should be mentioned. It is truly the greatest event that has taken place, and the many hundreds of New England women who have waited for it are saving anywhere from $50 to $200 on their fur coats. Scott Furriers, New England's Largest Fur Establishment, 69 Summer St., conduct their one and only markdown sale in the year. It is genuine, and a markdown of their own dependable Scott furs, which they purchase from the most reliable and largest manufacturers of America. They do not buy inferior merchandise to sell at sale prices—and an unrestricted guarantee goes with every coat. Gorgeous fur coats are marked down to $75, $95, $125, $145, $195, $225 and up. Their stunning Scott Cloth coats, plain and fur trimmed, are also included in this sale. They are priced from $18.50 to $149.50. Fur scarfs for the smart dresser are $15 to $165. You may pay cash, if you wish; open an extended charge account; or, make small weekly or monthly payments while wearing your coat by joining the Scott Unique Fur Club—the only one in New England. Scott stores in New England are 69 Summer St., Boston; 309 Westminster St., Providence; 51 Pratt St., Hartford. For your convenience open evenings until 9 o'clock.

With best wishes for a Happy New Year!

NEWS AND VIEWS OF MODERN HOMES

FINE POINTS OF MODERN HOMES

By BETTY BONNELL

HOW much gayer and more charming their home felt when I paid them a visit last week. Marjorie hadn't told me a blessed thing about it beforehand, but from hinting she had a surprise stored up for me. And when she led me into the living room of their home, there it was—one of the loveliest baby grands you ever laid eyes on!

Betty Bonnell

Marjorie had so often quer-lied me, as others do, as to the advisability of bringing a piano into the home. And always my answer is the same—a piano has a definite place in the scheme of every modern home.

Somehow a new character and personality are imparted to the home where music dwells. Nothing can supplant the natural and aesthetic value of a musical education and the physical fact that a beautiful piano stands invitingly in the living room is one of the strongest influences in awakening in children's hearts a deep desire to express their talents at the keyboard.

Strange as it may seem, the style of the piano has undergone little change, and yet it adapts itself perfectly to the theme of the modern home. Of course, the upright piano has lost its mid-Victorian massiveness and now follows daintier lines. But primarily the present trend is toward the grand piano.

There are a number of models, particularly in the baby grand class, that are made expressly for smaller rooms. Even though smaller in dimension, they retain grace of curvature and sweeping line that blends beautifully with the surrounding furnishings.

One of the most representative piano houses that has a complete stock of the requirements of the modern home is Charles S. Norris, Inc., Boston.

They show a fascinating array of grand and baby grand models of well-nigh perfect musical quality and rich casings. You will find it most interesting to look at these ebonized, mahogany and American walnut cases in dull finish.

A vogue that has come into being for those who can afford to be somewhat generous in their outlay is that of the hand-painted and carved art cases. Leading piano houses are featuring these in endless variety to harmonize with individual schemes of architecture and interior decorations.

LITERATURE on standard materials and products used in the construction of the modern homes will be sent to you if you will check the subjects that interest you and mail to the National Modern Homes Bureau, Inc., Real Estate Dept., Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston.

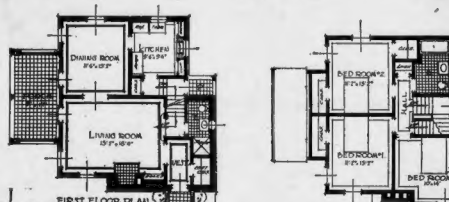
Small French Cottage at $10,500



SMALL COTTAGE CONVENIENTLY ARRANGED

By National Modern Homes Bureau, Inc.

THIS little cottage (A-205) brings to mind some of the many small manors we have seen dotting the countryside of France. This style is fast finding its place in the American setting, although considerable readjustments are found necessary to meet our mode of living.

Our plan arrangement is totally different from the French plan, rooms must be more conveniently and economically arranged and more windows are required to provide better light and air.

This small house shows six well arranged rooms and two complete bathrooms, all of which are nicely related to each other and would be very convenient to live in. The bathroom arranged off the first stair landing is well placed, serving a dual purpose, that of a first floor lavatory and a bath that can be used from the second floor.

A good size vestibule with ample coat closet space helps materially in the proper functioning of a small house. A glance at the kitchen, while not large, reveals a most convenient and workable arrangement.

The laundry and heating plant are located in the cellar.

The house contains 22,300 cubic feet and would cost approximately $10,500 to build.

COMPLETE working plans and specifications of the house illustrated above may be obtained for a nominal cost from the National Modern Homes Bureau, Inc. Any technical questions regarding this house will be answered without cost or obligation. Address the National Modern Homes Bureau, Real Estate Department, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston. Refer to House A-205.

DEVICES SHOW MOISTURE

In seeking to regulate humidity in the home, the family needs some method of gauging the amount of moisture in the air, the Holland Institute of Thermology of Holland, Mich., points out. Just as there are thermometers to measure temperature, so there are two yardsticks for moisture-content.

One of these is the hygrometer, and the other the psychrometer, according to the institute. If every family would make a point of having one of these instruments, a long step would be taken toward preventing the overheated underhumid atmosphere that cause respiratory illnesses, damage to furnishings and decorations, and decrease of bodily comfort, says the institute.

Many hesitate to take this step, however, because of the cost of the instruments. However, an entirely effective hygrometer may be made at home fairly easily.

Skintled Brick Is Held Big Advance

Skintled brickwork stands unquestionably as the most radical development in masonry construction in the last 500 years, according to the Common Brick Manufacturers' Association of America. Next to it was the face brick, produced by various treatments of its surface, giving it an attractiveness which no other brick had pos sessed.

Skintled brickwork is simply an irregular laying of the colorful common bricks to produce mass textural wall effect of allure and charm. It is aided greatly by the clinker brick whose popularity, developed almost overnight, has been one of the notable triumphs of late year building material history.

Possible to Go Too Far

When You Go Too Far You Spoil Your Argument

(Copyright, 1930)

ANYTHING in excess is bad, except brain work. You cannot go too far with THAT. But with a majority of us there is little DANGER in that direction.

In other directions, in spending and saving, there is excess.

In smoking, excess.

And IN CRITICISING OTHERS ESPECIALLY, great excess.

For instance, the editor of the Irish Presbyterian, which is, by the way, a curious combination of words, doesn't believe in smoking.

He does not say as he might: "Don't smoke to EXCESS, it's bad."

He does not say, as he should, that young girls and boys in their teens should not smoke, and that women should not smoke until past the age of having children, because nicotine in the blood does not help the unborn baby.

The editor of the Irish Presbyterian says SO MUCH not true that he spoils his arguments entirely.

Here as a sample of exaggerated statement you may read what that editor says:

"The evil effects of tobacco are deep-seated and sure. Like all narcotics, its use has a deadening effect upon the moral sense, especially in young persons. The use of tobacco clogs the intellect, shatters the nerves, lessens the ambition, saps the brain, interferes with bodily development and the mental vigor of all growing boys. It tends to create a thirst for strong drink, and its excessive use has been known to cause nervous dyspepsia, heart disease, sore throat, cancer of the mouth, throat and stomach, nasal catarrh, insanity and imbecility, and to sap the foundations of manliness and virtue. Nothing will so surely destroy the sense of honor and make liars and thieves of boys and young men as the use of tobacco."

As a matter of fact, smoking does not "create a thirst for strong drink."

Smoking often takes the place of strong DRINK.

Men soon get tired of thinking, because it is a recently acquired accomplishment.

Among men, thinking is something like walking on the hind legs among dogs.

A dog CAN walk on his hind legs. But he stops as soon as possible and comes down on all fours.

A man CAN think, but he stops soon.

Smoking is a relief from thinking.

When you smoke placidly you lift your chin up in the air to blow the smoke toward the ceiling. Thus your forehead is tilted backward. Men do not think with foreheads tilted back. They think with foreheads tilted forward toward the floor.

Think now for half a second, and try it.

Perfection, of course, would be desirable.

Drinking nothing but water, eating only vegetables, going to bed at eight, getting up at four, never smoking, always working, perhaps we should be a better race of beings, although we should be uncomfortably like the ants. The sensible thing is to criticise MILDLY, and especially to stick to facts.

And, by the way, you can imagine what this Presbyterian editor would do to the tobacco smokers if he could.

You see what prohibitionists in the United States, who are doing exactly what they please, do to those that don't quite agree with them.

See if Those Rooms Connect

By NELSON HARDING

The Law should go ahead and see
If secret entrances connect
The haunts of politics and crime,
As many honest men suspect.

If there's a link between the two,
The present is the proper time
For Law to ferret out the truth
The better to wage war on crime. —N. H.

Last of Great Land Animals

As Well Let Them Disappear

(Copyright, 1930)

FEMALE ELEPHANT PHOTOGRAPHED AT A DISTANCE OF FIFTEEN YARDS.

THIS interesting photograph of a very large female elephant, charging angrily in the direction of the photographer when she heard the camera "click" shows that there are some big animals left, although the biggest, dinosaurs, mammoths, etc., have vanished.

The British are agitated at present about the rapid disappearance of elephants.

British and American sportsmen, anxious for excitement, which is found most easily in "killing something," must have their sport and enjoy their killing.

Year after year, the elephants become fewer in number.

The highly prized white rhinoceros has been reduced to a very small number.

Soon these interesting animals will disappear from the earth.

Probably it is just as well. They breed and carry diseases. And in the course of events they must disappear finally, nothing could preserve them.

Byrd's Daring Flights

By ARCHIBALD HENDERSON

GREAT achievement is seldom effected at a single bound. Back of any special accomplishments always lie years of hard work, diligent apprenticeship and rigorous self-mastery.

This is true of all the great figures I have personally encountered—Wilson, Einstein, Shaw, Michelson, Planck, Rutherford, Eddington, to mention some of the most conspicuous.

Throughout his entire career, Richard E. Byrd has boldly surmounted countless obstacles, overcome the severest handicaps, made the most precise and careful preparations for each new achievement. He has never been contented to rest on his laurels, but has continued to set for himself goals ever more difficult of attainment.

When Byrd returned from his North Polar flight, he was hailed as a hero. The acclaims of the entire world greeted his brilliant feat. He soon set for himself an even more arduous undertaking—one on which his mind and his efforts had long been set—a transatlantic airplane flight.

BYRD'S flight across the Atlantic has been held by many judges as of more scientific value than that of Lindbergh, which preceded it. Disaster marked Byrd's trial flight in a Fokker plane, which resulted in disabling Floyd Bennett and incapacitating him for the final flight.

The value of Byrd's flight is estimated in terms of the various scientific observations made during the course of the flight.

In another respect, Byrd's flight was notable—as his plane remained nearly fifty hours in the air as compared to Lindbergh's thirty-three and a half hours.

THE history of the South Polar flight remains to be written. It is a stirring story, marked by the most elaborate and scientific preparation ever known.

In the autumn of 1928 the final start was made; the final triumph was achieved only a few days ago. Byrd established his base on the fringe of the vast ice barrier of Antarctica; and laid out a chain of supply depots in case a forced landing, a crack-up of his plane, or exhaustion of his supply of gasoline should compel a return journey overland to his starting point.

Byrd's recent flight, like his North Polar flight, he was hailed as a hero. The acclaims of the entire world greeted his brilliant feat. He soon set for himself an even more arduous undertaking—one on which his mind and his efforts had long been set—a transatlantic airplane flight.

H. G. Wells Writes on

"The Science of Life"

In Collaboration With

Prof. Julian Huxley and Geo. P. Wells

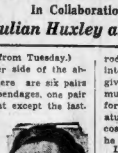
ON the lower side of the abdomen there are six pairs of limbs or appendages, one pair to each segment except the last. Below the cephalothorax there are 13 more pairs of appendages.

The structure of these is pendages varies with their situation and the duties that they are intended to perform. Most conspicuous are the two pairs of whip-like feelers in front, the enormous claws, the four pairs of walking legs and the last pair of all which, together with last abdominal segment, form a flat plate used in the abdomen-flapping mode of retreat.



H. G. Wells

But besides these obvious appendages there are others. There is a battery of six pairs round the mouth, having various shapes and used for smelling, tearing up and sorting food; there is a series below the abdomen of which in the male the first two pairs are specially modified for transferring spermatozoa to the female.

Moreover, some of the appendages of the cephalothorax bear gills on their bases and are constructed in various ways so that a current of water may be passed over the gills.

A lobster does not possess anything that could be called a hand. Every one of his 19 pairs of limbs is designed for the efficient and exclusive performance of some particular duty. They are not so much limbs as tools.

A lobster is like an armless carpenter who has his mallets and planes, his awls and chisels and reamers, his saws, bits, drill, axes, augers and sandpaper—even his knives and forks and spoons and toothpicks—sprouting a double row out of the front of his chest and belly.

On opening the lobster and examining the organs that lie within his hard exterior we find other striking contrasts with ourselves.

The armor, we find, is the lobster's skeleton: he has no bones that correspond to ours, and except in a few places where rods project from the surface into the soft interior in order to give firm attachment to the muscles of his limbs, and except for a marvelous chewing apparatus in his stomach, this outer coating is the only rigid tissue he possesses.

Like the hard substance of our own skeletons it is made BY but not OF living cells; it is dead matter consisting largely of a horny substance called chitin, and strengthened by the deposition in it of lime salts, and it is secreted by a layer of cells that lies immediately below it.

Since the lobster lies inside his own skeleton, the mechanical arrangements of his limbs and other movable parts have to be different from ours.

The lobster's main interior, cavity in the cephalothorax, is not divided into thorax and abdomen cavities like ours; it is one large cavity. Moreover, this cavity is filled with blood. It is not a special cavity as our body-cavities are; it is, as if the veins of a vertebrate had swollen enormously and united together, squeezing the true body-cavity (and, incidentally, the whole sympathic system) out of existence.

Further the color of the blood is different. Instead of our red oxygen-carrying pigment haemoglobin, the lobster has a paleblue pigment called haemocyanin, with copper in it instead of iron, and instead of being contained in special circulating cells this pigment is diffused, dissolved in the blood-plasma.

Within this vast blood-space his various organs are disposed, and their arrangement is quite different from that of a vertebrate. The lobster's central nervous system runs along his belly; his heart is in the middle of his back; his kidneys and bladder lie in his head and open at the bases of the antennae a little way in front of his mouth.

Our specimen eats anything that he can pick up, with a strong preference for animal food—such as smaller crustaceans, molluscs and worms, or any kind of carrion.

The food is generally seized by the large claws and passed by them to the first or second pair of walking legs; these in their turn hand it to the last pair of mouth-appendages, the third maxillipedes, which tear it to shreds with their rows of sharp teeth.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

THIS is an age of efficiency, "pep," high-pressure nerves and high-power vitality.

How we DO love to boast of our energy, our speed, our cold plunges, our super-men and our super-women.

But ARE we so "super"—ahush!—or are we just lazy!

We are too lazy to control our children. So we let them do as they please, eat what they please, say what they please and make themselves as ridiculous as they please—and call it "free verse."

We are too lazy to learn to draw. So we make a few cubes on a canvas—and call it "self-expression!"

We are too lazy to make our poetry rhyme. So we write it without rhyme or rhythm or beauty—and call it "free verse."

Men are too lazy to face marriage and the struggle of supporting a family and women are too lazy to face the burden of rearing children and keeping house for a man. So most of them stay single—and call it "independence."

Those of us who do marry are too lazy to make the effort to adjust ourselves to each other. So we rush to the divorce courts—and call it "incompatibility."

We are too lazy to walk. So we ride in taxicabs and automobiles and grow FAT—and then resort to massage and dieting to keep us from arterio sclerosis.

We are even too lazy to endure the high-pressure emotions and rarefied idealism of REAL LOVE. So we run for our lives when we see it coming and just play around with a lot of little imitation loves—and call it "living our own lives!"

We are too lazy to exercise our spiritual natures. So we stay away from church and spend our Sundays on the golf links—and call it "getting next to nature."

We are even too lazy to FLIRT. So we pass over all the hors d'oeuvres of romance—and get right down to the petting party and the kiss!

Efficient? Peppy? Energetic? Oh tell that to the insomniacs! It's a beautiful bedtime story!

We are probably the laziest generation that ever graced this gracious world. We are all acquiring atrophy of the spiritual nature, hardening of the emotions and tonsilitis of the EGO!

We are victims of the great god Laziness!

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 2—Small fortunes have been made in New York by a band of enterprising folk known as "lease profiteers." They are—mostly women with a sense of real estate values and are within the law. It is their job to keep in close touch with building development.

Through their own observations, along with tips from employes of real estate concerns, they learn in advance of proposed building booms and move in, first acquiring long time leases. All they have to do is wait for the actual deal to go through.

Sometimes it misses fire and that is their hazard, but if it clicks they become "holdouts." They decorate the apartment and outfit it on the installment plan. In some instances they acquire several apartments, furnish and sub-rent them.

The laws are inclined to favor those who have made such leases and they can exact a stiff price for their surrender. There have been many cases where a holdout with a year's lease to run at $150 a month has settled for as high as $20,000.

One woman who had rented 15 apartments on a tipoff of a big building plan on 42d st. is reliably reputed to have made a cash settlement for $80,000. She had in a year's time expended only $13,000. She is now educating her two daughters in France.

In the midtown district recently, many apartment renters, through no scheming whatever, have been given neat bonuses when the time came for the buildings in which they were housed to come down. For the average apartment all cost of moving is defrayed with a gift of $1000.

Those who live in the Fifth ave. area in the Fifties where the Rockefeller center of art was to have arisen have been treated with generosity. Many domiciled in some of the decaying structures there would have had to move soon anyway. But all received voluntary bonuses.

Madison ave. has a poetic firm of dressmakers in "Hill and Dale."

The New York waitress these days is rarely the gum-chewing chemical blonde with a gold tooth and flip patter. The aristocratic tea rooms and home cooking dinner places so handsomely decorated have brought a new type to the job. Many are those paying their way through night schools on talking home study courses in various arts. They give an aura of dignity to what has been considered a humble job and are swift, sure and self-effacing. One restaurant boasts of two Vassar graduates as "hostesses."

My sympathy is deep for a myopic old gentleman who, upon tapping a figure on the shoulder near the Plaza to ask for a match, turned away quickly, red to his ears. The figure was that of a derbied and mannish young lady in riding breeches.

Petty thieves hunting prospects use the hall directory in modest walk-up apartments where there are no hallmen. Having secured the name and address, it is an easy matter to telephone to see if there is anyone at home before they pay a visit.

Such a crowd of 15 writers at a luncheon at the Hotel Vanderbilt yesterday a pencil was needed. The only person, as usual, who could furnish it was a waiter.

And at the same luncheon a writing gentleman was worried over an invitation he had received to meet a Rance at a tea later in the afternoon. His dictionary had been of no help. And it was a waiter who politely intruded with: "A Rance, sir, is the title of the wife of a Rajah." And so it is.

From Cincinnati: "You often speak of Seed st. coats and Savile row trousers, but do you know that merchant tailors in this city originated the sawed-off vests and many other innovations in weskits?"
